George Fights For Aid Hike

Senator Takes Lead After Plea By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) took the lead today in a move to fatten the foreign aid bill after President Eisenhower appealed from his hospital bed for restoration of at least part of the big cuts made by the House.

George signaled his intention to fight to restore a half billion dollars in military assistance funds to the $3,800,000,000 program which passed the House yesterday.

Eisenhower originally had asked for $4,900,000,000. But administration leaders suggested today that the aid program would meet the nation's needs if 600 million dollars was added to the House bill.

White House Huddle

The President's plea for partial restoration of the slash was heard by George and other Senate leaders of both parties when they met at the White House today with civilian and military chiefs of the administration.

Eisenhower's sentiments were relayed verbally by Sherman Adams, his assistant who visited him earlier in the morning at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said at an early news conference that Adams would tell the senators of the President's "deep interest in the bill as proposed by the administration."

He indicated later, however, that some reduction in funds would not be opposed by the White House.

Full Restoration Unlikely

Meeting with newsmen after the White House conference broke up, Hagerty said Eisenhower hoped the Senate "would move to restore funds to adequately support NATO and the mutual security program."

Asked if he meant restoration of the full $1,109,000,000 cut by the House, Hagerty said, "I didn't use a figure there."

After the session, George all but ruled out any effort within the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads, to put back the full amount the House deleted. The Senate committee starts voting on individual items in the bill tomorrow.

Robeson Faces Contempt Move

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities today initiated contempt of Congress action against Paul Robeson after an uproarious session in which the Negro singer declared, "You are the bad Americans . . . You ought to be ashamed of yourselves."

A flushed Chairman Walter (D-Pa) abruptly adjourned the group's public hearing after a table-thumping exchange with the left wing entertainer who was given a Stalin Peace Prize in 1952.

The committee then went into closed session and voted unanimously to recommend that Robeson be cited for contempt. Because the group technically was sitting as a subcommittee, it plans to meet again tomorrow to formally ratify its action.

A recommendation from the committee would go before the full House, which would decide whether to vote an actual contempt citation.

Walter said the committee was basing its action on Robeson's "entire conduct" at the hearing, "personal attacks on the committee" and "the smear on a senator."

The latter reference was to Robeson's mention of Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and an outspoken segregationist.

In denying he ever said U.S. Negroes would refuse to take up arms against the Soviet Union, Robeson added:

"In passing, I said it was unthinkable anybody would take up arms in the name of an Eastland."

Robeson later told a newsman, "There was no contempt. I answered every question. I was just standing my ground."

He did refuse to answer some questions, invoking the fifth amendment protection against possible self-incrimination. He declined to say whether he is a Communist Party member or whether he knows certain persons named by the committee.

Robeson was called before the group in its inquiry into possible use of American passports by Communists or fellow travelers. The singer is now making a court fight of his demand for a new passport, denied him after he collected the Stalin prize.

Hospital Error Costs Two Lives

NEWTON, Mass., June 12 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Ephraim Martin said today that a "flagrant mistake" took the lives of a man and woman in Newton-Wellesley Hospital Sunday night.

Gordon M. McMullen, 53, a hardware dealer, and Mrs. Marion C. Du Mont, 55, wife of an automobile dealer, were given sodium nitrite, a deadly poison, instead of sodium phosphate, a mild cathartic, the district attorney reported.

McMullin died within 10 minutes; Mrs. Du Mont within half an hour.

Martin said he would ask a District Court inquest to determine if there had been any criminal negligence involved.

He said hospital authorities, completing their own investigation had told him that a male employe "whose conduct may be an issue has been transferred from his regular employment in the pharmacy pending completion of the investigation."

Argentine Rebel Leader Seized, Reported Shot

BUENOS AIRES, June 12 (AP)—Gen. Juan Jose Valle, who tried to win the Argentine presidency with a rebellion last weekend, was captured early today and reported shot by a firing squad.

There was no immediate official communique on the execution but a source close to Government House amplified the statement of an intelligence officer that Valle had been executed.

It appeared that the government's death sentence had been carried out at an army base in or near Buenos Aires.

The government also announced the execution of retired Lt. Juan Alberto Abadie, second in command of the uprising at the 7th Infantry Regiment in La Plata. His superior, Col. Oscar Lorenzo Cogarno was among those executed yesterday.

A civilian source close to Government House disclosed that the government had commuted to life imprisonment death sentences imposed on between 150 and 200 rebels.

One of these was believed to have given the tip that led to Valle's capture. An attempt to trap Vale into leading them to Gen. Raul Tanco, revolt coleader, failed. Valle was captured by federal police in a predawn raid on an apartment house.

Britain Expels Greek Cleric, Dooms Cypriot

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—The British government deported a high Greek Orthodox priest from London today and sentenced another Cypriot to death on the isle of Cyprus.

Shortly afterward, damage to railway signals near Sheffield and tampering with brakes that forced 30 cars to pile up on a siding near Carlton were blamed by police on EOKA, the Greek-Cypriot underground. Its menace has led to doubling guards around the British royal family and government leaders. The initials EOKA were spelled out in stones beside the line at Sheffield.

There are 30,000 Cypriots of Greek descent in Britain.

Conference Arranged

The new developments in the Cyprus strife came as an aide to exiled Cyprus Archbishop Makarios flew here to talk to British Labor party leaders who oppose the government policy on Cyprus.

Cypriots of Greek descent and Greece demand freedom for the Mediterranean crown colony so that it can unite with Greece. Britain says it needs control of the island to defend NATO stakes in the Middle East and to guard its oil supplies.

There were hints that the aide, Nicos Kranidiotis, might reestablish talks on a Cyprus settlement. But in Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff denied reports that his government was conducting secret negotiations now on the Cyprus question.

EDKA Leaders Hunted

Makarios was exiled three months ago by the British to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean, accused of sparking underground activity that forced the British to make Cyprus an armed camp. Only today British troops moved in on Lakatamia, eight miles from the Cyprus capital of Nicosia, and clamped a curfew on the predominantly Communist village.

Five thousand other British troops were combing the island for leaders of EOKA. Isolated acts of violence continued on Cyprus.

The Greek cleric deported from London is the Archimandrite Kallinikos Macheriotis, whose position is similar to that of a dean in the Anglican church.

Ike Continues His Recovery, Signs Papers

President Will Be Unable To Attend Panama Conference

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed three routine official documents and initialed two confidential papers today and his doctors reported "another good day on his way to recovery."

From his Walter Reed Hospital room on his third day after undergoing emergency surgery for an abdominal blockage, the President also sent a plea to Congress to restore some of the money cut from his foreign aid program.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty announced that Eisenhower would be unable to attend a scheduled conference of the heads of American states at Panama City June 25-26. Hagerty said the President would be "very happy" to consider a postponement but at present is unable "to consider an exact date."

Delay Suggested

President Arias Espinosa of Panama has suggested that the conference be postponed three weeks. The President's doctors have estimated his convalescence from the emergency surgery at four to six weeks—that is, between July 7 and July 21.

The last medical bulletin of the day, timed at 5 p.m. EDT, said:

"The President's condition continues to be satisfactory.

"His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration remain stable and essentially normal.

"He rested throughout the afternoon, sleeping at intervals.

"The President did not engage in his walking exercises this afternoon, and the doctors did not awaken him, preferring to let him sleep without interruption.

Pain Decreases Each Day

"He may take these exercises later in the day.

"The President has had another good day on the way to recovery from his operation."

Hagerty expanded this at a news conference, telling reporters:

Eisenhower is "still in pain but it decreases each day."

He is still getting mild sedation.

He still has the two tubes which were put in place after his operation of last Saturday morning. One is a drainage tube from nose to stomach and the other is a tube by which he is fed through his veins. He still has not taken food by mouth.

Omnibus Housing Measure Approved By House Committee

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved an omnibus housing bill providing for 180,000 new public housing units and billions of dollars in credit and insurance to boost new home construction.

The vote was reported unofficially as 14-6 in favor of the bill which went far beyond President Eisenhower's request and seemed certain to set off a fight on the House floor.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), the ranking committee Republican and a foe of the federally assisted, low-rent public housing program, said the bill's provisions were so distasteful to him he would oppose the measure altogether.

Housing is on the White House list of bills Eisenhower wants passed before Congress adjourns.

The House committee voted for 50,000 public housing units a year for a three-year period starting Aug. 1. In addition, it voted for 10,000 units in each of the three years for public housing specifically designed for elderly persons.

Baltimore Woman Sex Slaying Victim

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — The body of Mrs. John H. Bopst, about 45, was found today in her fashionable Charles Street Avenue home just north of the city line. She had been beaten and raped.

The woman's husband found the body when he came home about 6 p.m. from work at the Mechanical Engineering Corp. The house sits by itself on the side of a hill, the only residence in the block.

Police broadcast a lookout for a white man, who is believed to be driving a 1955 car missing from the Bopst home.

Ralph Morgan, Veteran Actor, Dies In New York

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Ralph Morgan, 72, veteran leading man of stage and screen, died at his home last night after a lengthy illness.

He was a brother of the late Frank Morgan, comedian. His daughter, Claudia, is an actress best known for leading roles in radio and television.

Morgan was forced by illness to retire 2½ years ago from the acting career that began in 1906, and had since been under treatment for a lung ailment.

State Dept. Hits Peiping Refusal To Pledge Peace

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The United States today rejected a Red Chinese proposal for a prompt meeting of foreign ministers of the two countries. It accused the Reds of refusing to make a "meaningful renunciation of force" in the long dispute over Formosa.

A State Department statement declared that the United States will "continue to seek" such a renunciation and also will go on pressing for release of 13 Americans still held in Red Chinese prisons despite an agreement last Sept. 10 to release all Americans.

Bid Made Month Ago

State Department officials said that there is not the slightest chance of changing U.S.-Red China negotiations to a higher level so long as the Communists persist in refusing to renounce force with respect to Formosa and in holding Americans prisoners in violation of the September agreement.

The statement here came after Communist China disclosed that it had proposed a month ago at Geneva that ambassadors of the two countries should arrange for a meeting of Secretary of State Dulles and Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En Lai within two months from that time.

U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan have been meeting periodically at Geneva since last Aug. 1—first on the question of freeing Americans detained in Red China and subsequently on the issue of Formosa.

50 Meetings Held

Throughout most of the 50 meetings held during the past 10 months the sparring has been over the Formosa problem with periodic prodding from the United States to obtain release of the prisoners.

Today's State Department statement recalled that on April 19 Johnson had presented to Wang a proposal for renunciation of the threat or use of force "in the Taiwan area or elsewhere." The proposal carried a specific provision that this would not prevent either side from peacefully trying to realize its policies or from exercising "its inherent right of individual or collective self defense."

Butler Charges Ike's Illnesses 'Propagandized'

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—Democratic Chairman Paul Butler today said information about President Eisenhower's illnesses has "been handled in terms of propaganda" by his associates.

He also asserted that the chief executive's health had been made a major issue by the Republican National Committee and White House staff—which, he said, have "propagandized" it.

Told of the remark by a reporter in Washington, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said:

"I believe the American people and the representatives of the news media that have been in attendance here and at Denver are convinced that throughout the President's illness in Denver and here the reports on the President's condition from day to day have been honest and completely factual.

Won't "Dignify" Comments

"As far as Mr. Butler's political comments are concerned, I wouldn't even dignify them with an answer."

Butler told newsmen that some unnamed doctors who have commented on the subject have felt some fellow doctors have "created a politico-medical science."

The Democratic chief spoke out at a news conference. He said he had been told that some doctors attending the American Medical Assn. convention in Chicago have been "quite critical" of some of their "brethren."

Should "Concern" AMA

He added that it should be "a matter of concern" to the AMA that some of its members are engaged in politics.

"Doctors are trying to make people believe," he said, "that a man who has had a heart attack, and has been afflicted with Crohn's disease is a better man."

Crohn's disease, named for its discoverer, Dr. Burrill B. Crohn, is one medical term for ileitis, the intestinal inflammation and obstruction for which the President underwent surgery Saturday. It is a disease of the ileium, or small intestine.

Dutch Concerned By Faith Healer's Court Influence

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, June 12 (AP)—Dutch government officials expressed deep concern and some embarrassment tonight over a faith healer's influence on Queen Juliana.

But they laughed off as nonsense suggestions by the German weekly magazine Der Spiegel in Frankfurt that the influence of the 61-year-old Dutch spinster Greet Hofmans extended to state matters.

The officials declined to comment on the magazine's assertion that Miss Hofmans had caused a rift between Juliana and her German-born husband, Prince Bernhard. Royal court circles declined to make any comment.

The magazine story said that Bernhard first heard of Miss Hofmans' faith healing in 1948, introduced her to the Queen, and then had her treat the partial blindness of their 9-year-old youngest daughter, Princess Maria Cristina.

Scientists Say Radiation Increase Could Peril Life

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—A group of the nation's leading experts on radioactivity warned today that "any large increase" in hydrogen bomb explosions could be "a matter of serious concern" to the human race.

The scientists said that while radiation from current tests does not imperil future generations, there will be an increase in the number of children deformed at birth even at the present rate of H-bomb blasts.

This estimate of the danger from nuclear radiation was contained in a special report issued by the National Academy of Scientists based on a year's study conducted by 146 top U. S. Scientists.

The "report to the public," distributed at a news conference at the academy's headquarters in Washington recommended a drastic reduction in radiation permitted for atomic workers to save future generations from hereditary damage.

The scientists noted, however, that only two or three per cent of all atomic workers are being subjected to the maximum radiation permitted.

The report stated flatly that radioactivity is "harmful to life," and said a shorter life span, an increase in cancer and other diseases and even the eventual destruction of the human race could result if unlimited testing is permitted.

At present, the report said, the average American is being exposed to radiation at the rate of 7.4 Roentgens in 30 years. It said the maximum allowable radiation should be 10 Roentgens in 30 years.

Diseases Psychosomatic To Degree, Study Reveals

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—A medical research team asserted today there is strong evidence that all known diseases are psychosomatic to some degree.

The physicians found a direct relationship between a wide variety of bodily illnesses and disturbances of mood, thought and behavior.

The team of 24 specialists, representing various branches of medicine, found that some people not only get more than their share of one kind of disease—but also get more of other diseases than the average.

The concept is that much sickness is an adaptive process—efforts of the brain to adapt the body to special social problems and surroundings and the body's reaction to combat infection and other irritating agents.

Ir a report to the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn. they said:

"The general implication of these findings is that. . . . man's attempt to adapt to his social environment is a very important determinant of his health in general which often overrides all other influences—a matter which must be of ever-increasing concern to medicine in the years to come."

The preliminary findings are based on a five-year study of three large groups of supposedly healthy people. The study is continuing at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Dozen Playing In Excavation Set Off Slide

Victims Are Buried Under Tons Of Sand In Brooklyn Tragedy

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—A dozen children, tunnelling a cave in an exuberant, heedless game of cowboys and Indians, touched off a landslide in Brooklyn tonight. Six of them died beneath tons of sand.

The sheer 25-foot wall of a block-square expressway cut collapsed with little more than a whispering sound as the children romped at its base. They were buried under three feet of soft, smothering sand.

Four small boys and two girls—aged 5 to 10—died before firemen could dig them out. Two of the little victims were brother and sister. Their mother collapsed screaming as their small bodies were brought out in blankets.

A seventh child—a girl—was taken to Greenpoint Hospital in critical condition.

Off-Limits To Children

The expressway cut was off-limits to neighborhood children, police said. Repeatedly in recent months, youngsters had been chased away from the perilous excavation. But just as repeatedly they sneaked back to continue their games.

Parts of the cut were barricaded. But gaps in the protective railings offered tempting ingress to youngsters.

Huge emergency searchlights poked their beams into the shadows at the base of the cut while the falling sun still lighted the brink of the excavation.

The dead, all of Brooklyn, were: John William McKenzie, 9; John T. Kotov, 7; Anna Ortiz, 8; Louis Nitti, 6; Lorraine Stanikunas, 5, and her brother, Michael, 10.

The injured girl was Anatoli Bykov, 9.

Girl Senses Peril

An older sister of the Stanikunas children, Marie, 11, was sent to summon them to dinner shortly before the cavein. She sensed the peril when she saw where her brother and sister were playing with the others.

"I told them something was going to happen but they just said, 'aw,'" she told newsmen.

After Marie turned back towards home, the earth collapsed. Within moments parents and children were swarming around the excavation.

Marie, her parents and her grandmother looked on as the bodies of the Stanikunas children were brought out in blankets.

"Don't look, don't look," the grandmother exhorted Marie, clasping the child to her.

The grandmother shouted down to rescuers in the pit:

"Which one? Which one?"

Back came a single shouted word:

"Both."

The children's mother collapsed and the father, grandmother and Marie sobbed in the gathering dusk.

Bloc Favors U.N. Algeria Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 12 (AP)—A majority of the powerful Asian-African group in the U.N. today approved a request for an urgent session of the Security Council on the Algerian-French conflict.

The group's members acknowledged privately they did not have enough votes on the Council to win consideration. Seven of the 11 members must support a measure to get it on the agenda.

Swept on by pressure from all of the Arab countries for recourse to the U.N., these 13 members agreed to sign the request: Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Thailand, and Yemen.

India, one of the leading members of the group, declined to sign at this time, as did Ceylon, Ethiopia, Burma, the Philippines, and Turkey.

Liberia, Nepal, Laos and Cambodia were not represented.

Japan, a nonmember of the U.N., but a member of this bloc, sat in for the first time. Japan did not commit itself since it cannot vote in the U.N.

The group action was taken despite strong moves by Prime Minister Nehru of India, his foreign affairs adviser, V. K. Krishna Menon, and India's permanent delegate, Arthur Lall, for a more moderate course. Lall attended the meeting.

Ike Continues His Recovery, Signs Papers

President Will Be Unable To Attend Panama Conference

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed three routine official documents and initialed two confidential papers today and his doctors reported "another good day on his way to recovery."

From his Walter Reed Hospital room on his third day after undergoing emergency surgery for an abdominal blockage, the President also sent a plea to Congress to restore some of the money cut from his foreign aid program.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty announced that Eisenhower would be unable to attend a scheduled conference of the heads of American states at Panama City June 25-26. Hagerty said the President would be "very happy" to consider a postponement but at present is unable "to consider an exact date."

Delay Suggested

President Arias Espinosa of Panama has suggested that the conference be postponed three weeks. The President's doctors have estimated his convalescence from the emergency surgery at four to six weeks—that is, between July 7 and July 21.

The last medical bulletin of the day, timed at 5 p.m. EDT, said:

"The President's condition continues to be satisfactory.

"His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration remain stable and essentially normal.

"He rested throughout the afternoon, sleeping at intervals.

"The President did not engage in his walking exercises this afternoon, and the doctors did not awaken him, preferring to let him sleep without interruption.

Pain Decreases Each Day

"He may take these exercises later in the day.

"The President has had another good day on the way to recovery from his operation."

Hagerty expanded this at a news conference, telling reporters:

Eisenhower is "still in pain but it decreases each day."

He is still getting mild sedation.

He still has the two tubes which were put in place after his operation of last Saturday morning. One is a drainage tube from nose to stomach and the other is a tube by which he is fed through his veins. He still has not taken food by mouth.

Omnibus Housing Measure Approved By House Committee

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved an omnibus housing bill providing for 180,000 new public housing units and billions of dollars in credit and insurance to boost new home construction.

The vote was reported unofficially as 14-6 in favor of the bill which went far beyond President Eisenhower's request and seemed certain to set off a fight on the House floor.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), the ranking committee Republican and a foe of the federally assisted, low-rent public housing program, said the bill's provisions were so distasteful to him he would oppose the measure altogether.

Housing is on the White House list of bills Eisenhower wants passed before Congress adjourns.

The House committee voted for 50,000 public housing units a year for a three-year period starting Aug. 1. In addition, it voted for 10,000 units in each of the three years for public housing specifically designed for elderly persons.

Baltimore Woman Sex Slaying Victim

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — The body of Mrs. John H. Bopst, about 45, was found today in her fashionable Charles Street Avenue home just north of the city line. She had been beaten and raped.

The woman's husband found the body when he came home about 6 p.m. from work at the Mechanical Engineering Corp. The house sits by itself on the side of a hill, the only residence in the block.

Police broadcast a lookout for a white man, who is believed to be driving a 1955 car missing from the Bopst home.

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—T. S. Eliot, American-born British poet-playwright, was reported doing very nicely tonight after a heart attack suffered aboard the liner Queen Mary.

He was a brother of the late Frank Morgan, comedian. His daughter, Claudia, is an actress best known for leading roles in radio and television.

Morgan was forced by illness to retire 2½ years ago from the acting career that began in 1906, and had since been under treatment for a lung ailment.

State Dept. Hits Peiping Refusal To Pledge Peace

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The United States today rejected a Red Chinese proposal for a prompt meeting of foreign ministers of the two countries. It accused the Reds of refusing to make a "meaningful renunciation of force" in the long dispute over Formosa.

A State Department statement declared that the United States will "continue to seek" such a renunciation and also will go on pressing for release of 13 Americans still held in Red Chinese prisons despite an agreement last Sept. 10 to release all Americans.

Bid Made Month Ago

State Department officials said that there is not the slightest chance of changing U.S.-Red China negotiations to a higher level so long as the Communists persist in refusing to renounce force with respect to Formosa and in holding Americans prisoners in violation of the September agreement.

The statement here came after Communist China disclosed that it had proposed a month ago at Geneva that ambassadors of the two countries should arrange for a meeting of Secretary of State Dulles and Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En Lai within two months from that time.

U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan have been meeting periodically at Geneva since last Aug. 1—first on the question of freeing Americans detained in Red China and subsequently on the issue of Formosa.

50 Meetings Held

Throughout most of the 50 meetings held during the past 10 months the sparring has been over the Formosa problem with periodic prodding from the United States to obtain release of the prisoners.

Today's State Department statement recalled that on April 19 Johnson had presented to Wang a proposal for renunciation of the threat or use of force "in the Taiwan area or elsewhere." The proposal carried a specific provision that this would not prevent either side from peacefully trying to realize its policies or from exercising "its inherent right of individual or collective self defense."

Butler Charges Ike's Illnesses 'Propagandized'

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—Democratic Chairman Paul Butler today said information about President Eisenhower's illnesses has "been handled in terms of propaganda" by his associates.

He also asserted that the chief executive's health had been made a major issue by the Republican National Committee and White House staff—which, he said, have "propagandized" it.

Told of the remark by a reporter in Washington, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said:

"I believe the American people and the representatives of the news media that have been in attendance here and at Denver are convinced that throughout the President's illness in Denver and here the reports on the President's condition from day to day have been honest and completely factual.

Won't "Dignify" Comments

"As far as Mr. Butler's political comments are concerned, I wouldn't even dignify them with an answer."

Butler told newsmen that some unnamed doctors who have commented on the subject have felt some fellow doctors have "created a politico-medical science."

The Democratic chief spoke out at a news conference. He said he had been told that some doctors attending the American Medical Assn. convention in Chicago have been "quite critical" of some of their "brethren."

Should "Concern" AMA

He added that it should be "a matter of concern" to the AMA that some of its members are engaged in politics.

"Doctors are trying to make people believe," he said, "that a man who has had a heart attack, and has been afflicted with Crohn's disease is a better man."

Crohn's disease, named for its discoverer, Dr. Burrill B. Crohn, is one medical term for ileitis, the intestinal inflammation and obstruction for which the President underwent surgery Saturday. It is a disease of the ileium, or small intestine.

Dutch Concerned By Faith Healer's Court Influence

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, June 12 (AP)—Dutch government officials expressed deep concern and some embarrassment tonight over a faith healer's influence on Queen Juliana.

But they laughed off as nonsense suggestions by the German weekly magazine Der Spiegel in Frankfurt that the influence of the 61-year-old Dutch spinster Greet Hofmans extended to state matters.

The officials declined to comment on the magazine's assertion that Miss Hofmans had caused a rift between Juliana and her German-born husband, Prince Bernhard. Royal court circles declined to make any comment.

The magazine story said that Bernhard first heard of Miss Hofmans' faith healing in 1948, introduced her to the Queen, and then had her treat the partial blindness of their 9-year-old youngest daughter, Princess Maria Cristina.

Scientists Say Radiation Increase Could Peril Life

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—A group of the nation's leading experts on radioactivity warned today that "any large increase" in hydrogen bomb explosions could be "a matter of serious concern" to the human race.

The scientists said that while radiation from current tests does not imperil future generations, there will be an increase in the number of children deformed at birth even at the present rate of H-bomb blasts.

This estimate of the danger from nuclear radiation was contained in a special report issued by the National Academy of Scientists based on a year's study conducted by 146 top U. S. Scientists.

The "report to the public," distributed at a news conference at the academy's headquarters in Washington recommended a drastic reduction in radiation permitted for atomic workers to save future generations from hereditary damage.

The scientists noted, however, that only two or three per cent of all atomic workers are being subjected to the maximum radiation permitted.

The report stated flatly that radioactivity is "harmful to life," and said a shorter life span, an increase in cancer and other diseases and even the eventual destruction of the human race could result if unlimited testing is permitted.

At present, the report said, the average American is being exposed to radiation at the rate of 7.4 Roentgens in 30 years. It said the maximum allowable radiation should be 10 Roentgens in 30 years.

Dozen Playing In Excavation Set Off Slide

Victims Are Buried Under Tons Of Sand In Brooklyn Tragedy

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—A dozen children, tunnelling a cave in an exuberant, heedless game of cowboys and Indians, touched off a landslide in Brooklyn tonight. Six of them died beneath tons of sand.

The sheer 25-foot wall of a block-square expressway cut collapsed with little more than a whispering sound as the children romped at its base. They were buried under three feet of soft, smothering sand.

Four small boys and two girls—aged 5 to 10—died before firemen could dig them out. Two of the little victims were brother and sister. Their mother collapsed screaming as their small bodies were brought out in blankets.

A seventh child—a girl—was taken to Greenpoint Hospital in critical condition.

Off-Limits To Children

The expressway cut was off-limits to neighborhood children, police said. Repeatedly in recent months, youngsters had been chased away from the perilous excavation. But just as repeatedly they sneaked back to continue their games.

Parts of the cut were barricaded. But gaps in the protective railings offered tempting ingress to youngsters.

Huge emergency searchlights poked their beams into the shadows at the base of the cut while the falling sun still lighted the brink of the excavation.

The dead, all of Brooklyn, were: John William McKenzie, 9; John T. Kotov, 7; Anna Ortiz, 8; Louis Nitti, 6; Lorraine Stanikunas, 5, and her brother, Michael, 10.

The injured girl was Anatoli Bykov, 9.

Girl Senses Peril

An older sister of the Stanikunas children, Marie, 11, was sent to summon them to dinner shortly before the cavein. She sensed the peril when she saw where her brother and sister were playing with the others.

"I told them something was going to happen but they just said, 'aw,'" she told newsmen.

After Marie turned back towards home, the earth collapsed. Within moments parents and children were swarming around the excavation.

Marie, her parents and her grandmother looked on as the bodies of the Stanikunas children were brought out in blankets.

"Don't look, don't look," the grandmother exhorted Marie, clasping the child to her.

The grandmother shouted down to rescuers in the pit:

"Which one? Which one?"

Back came a single shouted word:

"Both."

Bloc Favors U.N. Algeria Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 12 (AP)—A majority of the powerful Asian-African group in the U.N. today approved a request for an urgent session of the Security Council on the Algerian-French conflict.

The group's members acknowledged privately they did not have enough votes on the Council to win consideration. Seven of the 11 members must support a measure to get it on the agenda.

Swept on by pressure from all of the Arab countries for recourse to the U.N., these 13 members agreed to sign the request: Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Thailand, and Yemen.

India, one of the leading members of the group, declined to sign at this time, as did Ceylon, Ethiopia, Burma, the Philippines, and Turkey.

Liberia, Nepal, Laos and Cambodia were not represented.

Japan, a nonmember of the U.N., but a member of this bloc, sat in for the first time. Japan did not commit itself since it cannot vote in the U.N.

The group action was taken despite strong moves by Prime Minister Nehru of India, his foreign affairs adviser, V. K. Krishna Menon, and India's permanent delegate, Arthur Lall, for a more moderate course. Lall attended the meeting.

Informal Overtures Made To Get Lewis' UMW Into AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Informal overtures have been made to get John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to end their nine-year independence and become part of the AFL-CIO.

So far, only a suggestion has been made. Much remains to be done to smooth over deep-seated feuds between Lewis and key AFL-CIO leaders before the UMW could become part of the merged labor movement.

David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and an AFL-CIO vice president, started the ball rolling a month ago toward getting the 76-year-old Lewis back in the federated labor union fold.

At the ILGWU's convention early in May, Dubinsky praised Lewis for once being a "driving force" in AFL affairs. He expressed confidence the UMW would join the AFL-CIO "before long." Dubinsky followed that up with an informal talk with Lewis last week.

Aides of Lewis said he had no comment, and George Meany, AFL-CIO president, could not be reached on the matter.

Lewis has pulled the UMW in and out of labor federations often in the past. He quit the AFL in 1935 with the group of unions forming the rival CIO and became that organization's first president. He quit the CIO in 1940 and rejoined the AFL in 1946.

Meany and Lewis clashed in a spectacular verbal battle at the AFL's 1947 convention in San Francisco.

Lewis counseled a labor boycott of the newly enacted Taft-Hartley law's requirement that union heads sign non-Communist affidavits in order to take advantage of services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Lewis asserted he was neither a Communist nor Red sympathizer, but objected to singling out labor leaders for such vows of loyalty.

Gunman Sought After He Loots Bank Of $66,546

SOUTHPORT, Ind., June 12 (AP)—A lean, soft - spoken gunman slipped through a police net today with the same efficiency he used earlier in kidnaping the Southport State Bank president and his wife and looting the institution of $66,546.

He held 16 persons under control while waiting for the time lock to open.

Bank Employes Threatened

"The first thing I knew, he was shining a flashlight in my face," the 67-year-old Whalen told police.

He said the gunman forced him and his wife to dress, took a pillowcase as a money container, and made them accompany him to the bank, nine miles south of Indianapolis.

The robber added the bank's 11 employes and three patrons to his group of captives as they arrived and held them with the threat of a nickel-plated revolver until the time lock opened the vault at 9 a.m.

"He cleaned us out completely," Whalen said.

Flees In Whalen's Car

The gunman discarded a $2 bill, handed $500 to cashier Ruth N. Drake "to open the bank" and drove away in Whalen's automobile.

The robber promised Whalen he would get his car back "in a few minutes." Police found it a short time later in a woods at the south edge of Indianapolis, where the gunman evidently had switched to a waiting car.

Air Force Rec Plans Opposed

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Air Force plans to spend 62 million dollars on recreational facilities, including $5,767,000 for swimming pools, have run into opposition in the House Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan), a committee member, has questioned the need for the program, which the Air Force has proposed as a morale booster.

Plans for the program were disclosed to the committee during recent closed door hearings. The committee made them public today, along with Scrivner's remarks. It has not definitely decided whether to approve the requested funds.

Scrivner said he never heard of a single airman who refused to reenlist simply because there was no swimming pool on the post.

Millions of taxpayers, he said, don't have swimming pools and don't have access to them "and I have not noticed their morale drooping too much, if you can see a morale droop."

Ex-Holdup Man Slaying Suspect

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — An ex-holdup man was sought today for questioning in the bludgeoning slaying of a 38-year-old Baltimore City employe whose body was found near Gwynns Falls Park.

The victim was Sidney Lee Cromwell. The body was found by Miss Ora Burton, a magazine solicitor who said she stumbled across it while fleeing from a masher yesterday.

Cromwell died of a heavy blow on the jaw, which caused blood to run into the throat and lungs and result in suffocation.

He was a senior clerk with the city's Bureau of Accounts and Disbursements.

Miss Burton told police she had been selling magazine subscriptions in the Edmondson Village at about 11 a.m. yesterday. She met a man who promised to buy a subscription if she got in his car. She entered the auto and was driven to a wooden area where she said the man made improper advances. She fled into the woods, and stumbled across the body.

Police yesterday picked up an illegally parked car, and found the interior blood stained. It had been stolen from a Baltimore resident.

Police would not say what connection the suspect had with the slaying.

Dulles Says Stalin Attack Indicts Whole Red System

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declared today that Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev's attack on the Joseph Stalin "period of horror" actually indicted the whole Soviet system of dictatorship.

"The evils which Khrushchev exposes and condemns are not merely due to the personality of Stalin, but due to a system which implements a philosophy which considers human beings as tools of the state, to be exploited for the glorification of the state," Dulles told a news conference.

He added:

"There is only one cure for the evils of the imposed Soviet dictatorship — that is government which derives its powers from the consent of the governed. This is a lesson that history teaches, that Khrushchev confirms and which needs to be applied if we are to have a world society of peace and justice."

In response to questions about other matters, Dulles told reporters:

1. He has no difference of viewpoint with President Eisenhower on U. S. policy toward neutral nations.

2. He had "extremely useful" but preliminary talks yesterday with Canada's Foreign Minister Lester Pearson. These talks concerned efforts to make the North Atlantic-Treaty Organization into something more than a military group.

3. President Eisenhower's illness will in no way impair the President's effectiveness in trying to get the Senate to restore all or part of the $1,100,000,000 cut made by the House in the adminisrtation's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

West Va. Mine Walkout Ends

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 12 (AP)—Northern West Virginia wildcat coal mine strike apparently is over. Where once some 33 mines employing 9,500 men were idle, all were working today.

The successful back - to - work movement spread from Monongalia County, where all mines were back in operation, through the strike-numbed area of Marion, Harrison and Barbour counties.

The key local was UMW No. 4019 at Williams No. 98 mine in Harrison County, where the strike over the number of men assigned to roof bolting machines began last May 24.

Williams miners took their third strike vote yesterday and voted overwhelmingly to return to work. Although only about one fourth of the 400 men in the local appeared at the meeting, only one dissenting vote was cast.

Gordon Gray Weds General's Daughter

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Maguire Beebe and Gordon Gray, assistant secretary of defense, were married here today.

The Rev. Charles D. Kean, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiated at the service at St. Albans Episcopal Church.

The bride was unattended. Gordon Gray Jr., 17, was his father's best man. Gray's other sons, Burton, Boyden and Bernard, attended.

Also present were the three small daughters of the bride.

The bride's parents are Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Hamilton Ewing Maguire. She is the widow of Marcus Beebe Jr., who died of polio in Hong Kong in 1952. Gray's first wife, the former Jane Craige, died in 1953.

Three British soldiers were killed and seven wounded.

Two Greek Cypriots passing on a motorcyle also were injured.

Courtesy Parking Meter Abandoned

ANNAPOLIS, June 12 (AP) — The city fathers have decided to abandon a "courtesy parking meter" installed at police headquarters as a convenience to shoppers who got tickets.

Motorists have made too good a thing of it, Police Commissioner George W. Rawlings told City Council.

Rawlings said shoppers have stopped slugging the regular meters, knowing that if they should get a ticket they could have it wiped out by depositing 25 cents in the courtesy meter at headquarters.

"The meter has defeated its purpose," he told councilmen.

Council agreed to repeal the ordinance creating the courtesy meter. The action becomes effective June 20.

Mine Health, Safety Measure Introduced

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Rep. Saylor (R-Pa) introduced a bill designed to promote health and safety in metallic and nonmetallic mines.

The legislation would empower the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Bureau of Mines, to inspect and investigate the mines whose products enter or substantially affect commerce.

The aim of such investigations, Saylor said, is to obtain information relating to health and safety conditions, causes of accidents, and causes of occupational diseases.

The bill would make applicable to metallic and nonmetallic mines the same federal provisions for inspection and safety standards as are contained in the coal mine safety law now in effect.

Martin Co. To Build Dominican A-Plant

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — The first atomic power plant in the West Indies will be built by the Glenn L. Martin Co. for the Dominican Republic on the island where Columbus first set foot in America.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, ex-president of the Dominican Republic announced today his government has contracted with Martin for a nuclear-powered electrical generating system to meet the growing requirements of his nation.

Rhode Island claims it turns out one-half the lace produced in the United States.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Air Force plans to spend 62 million dollars on recreational facilities, including $5,767,000 for swimming pools, have run into opposition in the House Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan), a committee member, has questioned the need for the program, which the Air Force has proposed as a morale booster.

Plans for the program were disclosed to the committee during recent closed door hearings. The committee made them public today, along with Scrivner's remarks. It has not definitely decided whether to approve the requested funds.

Scrivner said he never heard of a single airman who refused to reenlist simply because there was no swimming pool on the post.

Millions of taxpayers, he said, don't have swimming pools and don't have access to them "and I have not noticed their morale drooping too much, if you can see a morale droop."

Ex-Holdup Man Slaying Suspect

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — An ex-holdup man was sought today for questioning in the bludgeoning slaying of a 38-year-old Baltimore City employe whose body was found near Gwynns Falls Park.

The victim was Sidney Lee Cromwell. The body was found by Miss Ora Burton, a magazine solicitor who said she stumbled across it while fleeing from a masher yesterday.

Cromwell died of a heavy blow on the jaw, which caused blood to run into the throat and lungs and result in suffocation.

He was a senior clerk with the city's Bureau of Accounts and Disbursements.

Miss Burton told police she had been selling magazine subscriptions in the Edmondson Village at about 11 a.m. yesterday. She met a man who promised to buy a subscription if she got in his car. She entered the auto and was driven to a wooden area where she said the man made improper advances. She fled into the woods, and stumbled across the body.

Police yesterday picked up an illegally parked car, and found the interior blood stained. It had been stolen from a Baltimore resident.

Police would not say what connection the suspect had with the slaying.

Dulles Says Stalin Attack Indicts Whole Red System

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declared today that Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev's attack on the Joseph Stalin "period of horror" actually indicted the whole Soviet system of dictatorship.

"The evils which Khrushchev exposes and condemns are not merely due to the personality of Stalin, but due to a system which implements a philosophy which considers human beings as tools of the state, to be exploited for the glorification of the state," Dulles told a news conference.

He added:

"There is only one cure for the evils of the imposed Soviet dictatorship — that is government which derives its powers from the consent of the governed. This is a lesson that history teaches, that Khrushchev confirms and which needs to be applied if we are to have a world society of peace and justice."

In response to questions about other matters, Dulles told reporters:

1. He has no difference of viewpoint with President Eisenhower on U. S. policy toward neutral nations.

2. He had "extremely useful" but preliminary talks yesterday with Canada's Foreign Minister Lester Pearson. These talks concerned efforts to make the North Atlantic-Treaty Organization into something more than a military group.

3. President Eisenhower's illness will in no way impair the President's effectiveness in trying to get the Senate to restore all or part of the $1,100,000,000 cut made by the House in the adminisrtation's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

West Va. Mine Walkout Ends

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 12 (AP)—Northern West Virginia wildcat coal mine strike apparently is over. Where once some 33 mines employing 9,500 men were idle, all were working today.

The successful back - to - work movement spread from Monongalia County, where all mines were back in operation, through the strike-numbed area of Marion, Harrison and Barbour counties.

The key local was UMW No. 4019 at Williams No. 98 mine in Harrison County, where the strike over the number of men assigned to roof bolting machines began last May 24.

Williams miners took their third strike vote yesterday and voted overwhelmingly to return to work. Although only about one fourth of the 400 men in the local appeared at the meeting, only one dissenting vote was cast.

Gordon Gray Weds General's Daughter

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Mrs. Nancy Maguire Beebe and Gordon Gray, assistant secretary of defense, were married here today.

The Rev. Charles D. Kean, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiated at the service at St. Albans Episcopal Church.

The bride was unattended. Gordon Gray Jr., 17, was his father's best man. Gray's other sons, Burton, Boyden and Bernard, attended.

Also present were the three small daughters of the bride.

The bride's parents are Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Hamilton Ewing Maguire. She is the widow of Marcus Beebe Jr., who died of polio in Hong Kong in 1952. Gray's first wife, the former Jane Craige, died in 1953.

Cyprus Violence

LIMASSOL, Cyprus, June 12 (AP)—A land mine with an electric detonator blew up a passing British army truck near here tonight.

Three British soldiers were killed and seven wounded.

Two Greek Cypriots passing on a motorcyle also were injured.

Courtesy Parking Meter Abandoned

ANNAPOLIS, June 12 (AP) — The city fathers have decided to abandon a "courtesy parking meter" installed at police headquarters as a convenience to shoppers who got tickets.

Motorists have made too good a thing of it, Police Commissioner George W. Rawlings told City Council.

Rawlings said shoppers have stopped slugging the regular meters, knowing that if they should get a ticket they could have it wiped out by depositing 25 cents in the courtesy meter at headquarters.

"The meter has defeated its purpose," he told councilmen.

Council agreed to repeal the ordinance creating the courtesy meter. The action becomes effective June 20.

Mine Health, Safety Measure Introduced

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Rep. Saylor (R-Pa) introduced a bill designed to promote health and safety in metallic and nonmetallic mines.

The legislation would empower the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Bureau of Mines, to inspect and investigate the mines whose products enter or substantially affect commerce.

The aim of such investigations, Saylor said, is to obtain information relating to health and safety conditions, causes of accidents, and causes of occupational diseases.

The bill would make applicable to metallic and nonmetallic mines the same federal provisions for inspection and safety standards as are contained in the coal mine safety law now in effect.

Martin Co. To Build Dominican A-Plant

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP) — The first atomic power plant in the West Indies will be built by the Glenn L. Martin Co. for the Dominican Republic on the island where Columbus first set foot in America.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, ex-president of the Dominican Republic announced today his government has contracted with Martin for a nuclear-powered electrical generating system to meet the growing requirements of his nation.

Rhode Island claims it turns out one-half the lace produced in the United States.

Press Law As Tough As One He Killed Pushed Through By Premier Of Turkey

By ALLAN JACKS

ANKARA, Turkey, June 12 (AP)—Six years ago a handsome, dapper Turkish politician promised, if elected, to repeal a stringent press law and free imprisoned newsmen.

The promise was made by Deputy Adnan Menderes campaigning in Turkey's first free national election.

Menderes, Celal Bayar and two other deputies had formed the Democratic party. The party won. Menderes became premier and Bayar became president.

Menderes kept his promise. He repealed the press law and freed a number of newsmen.

Last Thursday Menderes, now 57, still handsome and dapper, pushed through Parliament a press law as tough and restrictive as the one he repealed.

The press and opposition charge the law is intended to gag all criticism of Menderes, his party and his government.

Among other things the law provides one to three years in prison for those who publish what the government considers to be false news or who incite public agitation or emotion or undermine faith in Turkey's political or economic position.

Offending newspapers can be closed for three months. Even news vendors can be jailed for a month and fined for shouting to advertise stories.

What happened between the 1950 promise and Thursday's law?

Menderes declared during a hot debate before Parliament passed the law:

"Immediately after we came to power we became targets of press attacks which in following years took forms inimical to the country. We found ourselves in the presence of a mentality which would sacrifice anything to satisfy its ambition, creating the gravest dangers for Turkey.

"The obligation to take measures against this mentality became a patriotic duty."

In the past six months press and the political opposition have been attacking Menderes and his government in ever-increasing crescendo, charging his policies have led Turkey into economic difficulty. Menderes called their attacks sabotage.

Actually, the press and Menderes got along fairly well during his first four years as premier. Most newspapers supported him and his party for re-election in 1954.

Although economic troubles already loomed, the Democrats won with 55 per cent of the vote and captured 500 seats in a 540-seat one-house Parliament.

An analysis showed, however, that the party's support came primarily from the untaxed peasant. It did not do well in the intellectual and middle class centers.

Almost immediately Menderes proposed and Parliament passed several laws all violently attacked by the press and opposition.

A criminal slander and libel law drew particular fire for a clause that barred the defendant from presenting proof that what he wrote was true. It also doubled prison sentences for slander of public officials.

Menderes' opponents charged he acted out of fear of the intellectuals and their influence with the electorate.

His friends said Menderes hoped for time to carry out ambitious plans to industralize and modernize Turkey.

In the year after the 1954 slander and libel law was adopted, about 40 newsmen were arrested and some jailed. Menderes' relations with the press began to deteriorate rapidly, although some newspapers continued to support him.

Relations grew worse almost in direct proportion with the worsening of the country's economy.

Menderes, indefatigable but highly nervous and sensitive, fought back in public speeches. He called his critics "saboteurs, planning revolution in the country."

As promised in a number of public speeches, Menderes finally brought out his proposed new press law. It was adopted by an overwhelming majority.

Maryland Farmer's Buying Power Rises

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 12 (AP)—The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said today the purchasing power of the Maryland farmer went up between mid-April and mid-May.

The service said a comparison with the all commodity index of prices received and the index of prices paid showed a purchasing power increase.

The commodity index of prices received was up 8 per centage points while the index of prices received was up 8 percentage points, the service noted.

Corn was up 14 cents a bushel, wheat was up 10 and oats, barley, and rye ranged from 2 to 5 cents a bushel higher on May 15 than a month earlier, the report said.

Soybeans advanced 45 cents a bushel and there were increases of 80 cents per hundredweight for hogs and 40 cents for beef cattle. Veal was steady. Wholesale milk dropped 15 cents a hundredweight.

Farm chickens were up a cent a pound. Commercial broilers were up a half a cent. Eggs dipped slightly.

Feed purchased by farmers also went up, the gains ranging from 5 to 25 cents a hundredweight.

As for current crops, the service said planting of corn is practically completed. Soybean planting is about two thirds done.

Barley is ripening rapidly. Rye is filling. Wheat ranged from full bloom to hard dough stage.

Earliest tomato fields have begun to bloom. Sweet corn is about three-fourths planted.

Weather has favored the sizing of apples and peaches.

Penguins do not all live in regions of ice and snow. Many inhabit the lower east and west coasts of South America and South Africa, areas of Australia, New Zealand and some Pacific islands.

State Workers Get SS Benefits Starting July 1

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Chairman Hooper S. Miles of the State Employes Retirement System said today that federal social security benefits will be extended to State employes July 1.

Miles said employes had voted overwhelmingly in favor of social security in a referendum this month.

It will be the first time in history that Maryland State workers have been covered by the Social Security Act provisions.

The federal government opened the doors to State employes through legislation passed in 1954. Maryland then passed a law making available the program to its State employes subject to a referendum of them.

Miles said of 14,903 eligible employes, a total of 83.82 per cent voted in favor of social security. The vote of school teachers in the Maryland counties will not be compiled completely until later in the week, Miles said. But of the 35 per cent tabulated, 82.81 per cent favor the program.

Separate referendums for employes of institutions of higher learning showed approval in percentages ranging from 84.22 to 97.3, according to Miles.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Some 200 4-H Club members chosen from more than two million for achievements in citizenship and projects will attend the week-long National 4-H Club Camp opening here Wednesday.

Federal Roads Official Outbid For River Isle

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—A man who yesterday offered $1,200,000 for a small Potomac River island only about one-fiftieth above water was identified today as Walter B. Hardisty, an official of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Hardisty was outbid by a real estate man, Arthur J. Williams of Takoma Park, Md., who offered $1,300,000. Williams hasn't said why he wants the island, which is near the proposed path of the Cabin John Bridge section of the Washington circumferential highway.

Hardisty said he didn't know anything about the island being in the path of a proposed bridge. He tried to buy it, he said, as an investment.

The island comprises 211 acres but only four acres are above water. It's near Glen Echo.

The big money bidding revolved around a $20.24 item. That's the amount of taxes, plus interest, that are due on the land and which led to yesterday's auction at Rockville, Md. The land still belongs to a person identified as Mary Wheeldon of Falmouth, Ky., who still has a chance to redeem the land by paying the taxes due.

Williams actually had to pay only $20.24 for his "purchase." Only if Williams decides to go through with foreclosure proceedings—which can't be started for 366 days—would he have to pay the $1,300,000.

County officials said they couldn't recall a bid, under such circumstances, that was as high as Williams'.

Hardisty, however, commented that it "is just plain ridiculous" that anyone would get excited about the high bidding for the island.

Eyewitness Tells Of Slaying At Trial

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 12 (AP)—An eyewitness account of the slaying of Arthur Chyatte in his Silver Spring car wash office six weeks ago opened the murder trial today of Eddie Lee Daniels, 22-year-old Washington Negro.

Meyer Klein, a partner in the car wash business, identified Daniels as the gunman. He said Daniels, a former employe of the firm, had attempted to disguise himself by wearing a white cloth across the lower part of his face.

Klein told a 12-man jury how he stuffed $407 in cash into a sack the gunman had given him after his partner had been shot in the head. He said Daniels became frightened by a knock at the office's front door and fled through a rear door.

Tydings' Full Recovery Expected Next Week

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., June 12 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings is expected to be up and around and fully recovered by next week, his wife said today.

The 66-year-old Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate developed a tooth infection shortly after his May 7 primary election victory and was ordered to bed. A skin ailment on his forehead prolonged his inactivity.

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Councilman Leon A. Rubinstein has introduced a bill, at the urging of stiff-necked constituents, to make it unlawful to sell tickets for seats located behind posts that obstruct a spectator's view.

The osprey, or fish hawk, is a bird found on all continents. The male osprey is 22 inches in length, the female 24 inches. The adult male is streaked with brown, white and purple.

Outgoing Roads Commissioners Are Honored

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—The outgoing State Roads Commission was honored at a luncheon today by the Maryland Highways Contractors Assn.

The association includes a majority of contractors working on the State's 12-year roads program under commission Chairman Russell H. McCain and members Edgar T. Bennett and Bramwell Kelly.

Gov. McKeldin has named a new commission, headed by Baltimore banker Robert O. Bonnell, to succeed them.

Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the commission, noted that the outgoing commissioners were guests of honor last night at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 250 State Roads employes.

Housewright Named To Ft. Detrick Post

FT. DETRICK, Md., June 12 (AP)—Dr. Riley D. Housewright, formerly chief of the Army's medical bacteriological division, was appointed scientific director of the Army Chemical Corps Biological Warfare Laboratory.

The 42-year-old native of Wiley, Tex., succeeds Dr. John L. Schwab, recently promoted to deputy for scientific activities of the Army Chemical Corps Research and Development Command in Command in Washington.

In his new duties, Housewright will have responsibility for general supervision of technical aspects of the biological warfare program and assume direct management of scientific and technical personnel here.

France produced 42 billion pounds of milk in 1955.

Man Found Innocent Of Voting Illegally

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Philip Harris, who was elected a member of the Democratic State convention in the primaries in May, was found innocent today of charges he voted illegally in two 1954 elections.

The charge stemmed from a finding of assault with intent to murder against Harris in early 1954. The case involved a tavern disturbance. Harris was released on a generally suspended sentence without an actual sentence ever having been imposed.

Evidence was presented that Harris had obtained from the Board of Supervisors of Elections an opinion that he had a right to vote and did not come under the disqualification provisions imposed upon those convicted of a felony.

He was given by the Board a copy of an attorney general's opinion that assault with intent to murder was neither a felony nor an infamous crime which would abrogate his right to vote.

Maryland Farmer's Buying Power Rises

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 12 (AP)—The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said today the purchasing power of the Maryland farmer went up between mid-April and mid-May.

The service said a comparison with the all commodity index of prices received and the index of prices paid showed a purchasing power increase.

The commodity index of prices received was up 8 per centage points while the index of prices received was up 8 percentage points, the service noted.

Corn was up 14 cents a bushel, wheat was up 10 and oats, barley, and rye ranged from 2 to 5 cents a bushel higher on May 15 than a month earlier, the report said.

Soybeans advanced 45 cents a bushel and there were increases of 80 cents per hundredweight for hogs and 40 cents for beef cattle. Veal was steady. Wholesale milk dropped 15 cents a hundredweight.

Farm chickens were up a cent a pound. Commercial broilers were up a half a cent. Eggs dipped slightly.

Feed purchased by farmers also went up, the gains ranging from 5 to 25 cents a hundredweight.

As for current crops, the service said planting of corn is practically completed. Soybean planting is about two thirds done.

Barley is ripening rapidly. Rye is filling. Wheat ranged from full bloom to hard dough stage.

Earliest tomato fields have begun to bloom. Sweet corn is about three-fourths planted.

Weather has favored the sizing of apples and peaches.

Penguins do not all live in regions of ice and snow. Many inhabit the lower east and west coasts of South America and South Africa, areas of Australia, New Zealand and some Pacific islands.

State Workers Get SS Benefits Starting July 1

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Chairman Hooper S. Miles of the State Employes Retirement System said today that federal social security benefits will be extended to State employes July 1.

Miles said employes had voted overwhelmingly in favor of social security in a referendum this month.

It will be the first time in history that Maryland State workers have been covered by the Social Security Act provisions.

The federal government opened the doors to State employes through legislation passed in 1954. Maryland then passed a law making available the program to its State employes subject to a referendum of them.

Miles said of 14,903 eligible employes, a total of 83.82 per cent voted in favor of social security. The vote of school teachers in the Maryland counties will not be compiled completely until later in the week, Miles said. But of the 35 per cent tabulated, 82.81 per cent favor the program.

Separate referendums for employes of institutions of higher learning showed approval in percentages ranging from 84.22 to 97.3, according to Miles.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Some 200 4-H Club members chosen from more than two million for achievements in citizenship and projects will attend the week-long National 4-H Club Camp opening here Wednesday.

Federal Roads Official Outbid For River Isle

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—A man who yesterday offered $1,200,000 for a small Potomac River island only about one-fiftieth above water was identified today as Walter B. Hardisty, an official of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Hardisty was outbid by a real estate man, Arthur J. Williams of Takoma Park, Md., who offered $1,300,000. Williams hasn't said why he wants the island, which is near the proposed path of the Cabin John Bridge section of the Washington circumferential highway.

Hardisty said he didn't know anything about the island being in the path of a proposed bridge. He tried to buy it, he said, as an investment.

The island comprises 211 acres but only four acres are above water. It's near Glen Echo.

The big money bidding revolved around a $20.24 item. That's the amount of taxes, plus interest, that are due on the land and which led to yesterday's auction at Rockville, Md. The land still belongs to a person identified as Mary Wheeldon of Falmouth, Ky., who still has a chance to redeem the land by paying the taxes due.

Williams actually had to pay only $20.24 for his "purchase." Only if Williams decides to go through with foreclosure proceedings—which can't be started for 366 days—would he have to pay the $1,300,000.

County officials said they couldn't recall a bid, under such circumstances, that was as high as Williams'.

Hardisty, however, commented that it "is just plain ridiculous" that anyone would get excited about the high bidding for the island.

Eyewitness Tells Of Slaying At Trial

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 12 (AP)—An eyewitness account of the slaying of Arthur Chyatte in his Silver Spring car wash office six weeks ago opened the murder trial today of Eddie Lee Daniels, 22-year-old Washington Negro.

Meyer Klein, a partner in the car wash business, identified Daniels as the gunman. He said Daniels, a former employe of the firm, had attempted to disguise himself by wearing a white cloth across the lower part of his face.

Klein told a 12-man jury how he stuffed $407 in cash into a sack the gunman had given him after his partner had been shot in the head. He said Daniels became frightened by a knock at the office's front door and fled through a rear door.

Tydings' Full Recovery Expected Next Week

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., June 12 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings is expected to be up and around and fully recovered by next week, his wife said today.

The 66-year-old Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate developed a tooth infection shortly after his May 7 primary election victory and was ordered to bed. A skin ailment on his forehead prolonged his inactivity.

Clear Seating Bill

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Councilman Leon A. Rubinstein has introduced a bill, at the urging of stiff-necked constituents, to make it unlawful to sell tickets for seats located behind posts that obstruct a spectator's view.

The osprey, or fish hawk, is a bird found on all continents. The male osprey is 22 inches in length, the female 24 inches. The adult male is streaked with brown, white and purple.

Outgoing Roads Commissioners Are Honored

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—The outgoing State Roads Commission was honored at a luncheon today by the Maryland Highways Contractors Assn.

The association includes a majority of contractors working on the State's 12-year roads program under commission Chairman Russell H. McCain and members Edgar T. Bennett and Bramwell Kelly.

Gov. McKeldin has named a new commission, headed by Baltimore banker Robert O. Bonnell, to succeed them.

Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the commission, noted that the outgoing commissioners were guests of honor last night at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 250 State Roads employes.

Housewright Named To Ft. Detrick Post

FT. DETRICK, Md., June 12 (AP)—Dr. Riley D. Housewright, formerly chief of the Army's medical bacteriological division, was appointed scientific director of the Army Chemical Corps Biological Warfare Laboratory.

The 42-year-old native of Wiley, Tex., succeeds Dr. John L. Schwab, recently promoted to deputy for scientific activities of the Army Chemical Corps Research and Development Command in Command in Washington.

In his new duties, Housewright will have responsibility for general supervision of technical aspects of the biological warfare program and assume direct management of scientific and technical personnel here.

France produced 42 billion pounds of milk in 1955.

Man Found Innocent Of Voting Illegally

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—Philip Harris, who was elected a member of the Democratic State convention in the primaries in May, was found innocent today of charges he voted illegally in two 1954 elections.

The charge stemmed from a finding of assault with intent to murder against Harris in early 1954. The case involved a tavern disturbance. Harris was released on a generally suspended sentence without an actual sentence ever having been imposed.

Evidence was presented that Harris had obtained from the Board of Supervisors of Elections an opinion that he had a right to vote and did not come under the disqualification provisions imposed upon those convicted of a felony.

He was given by the Board a copy of an attorney general's opinion that assault with intent to murder was neither a felony nor an infamous crime which would abrogate his right to vote.

Bridge Fog Signal System Bids Opened

BALTIMORE, June 12 (AP)—The State Roads Commission said Mace Electric Co. of Baltimore submitted the low bid of $19,836 today on a contract to revise the fog signal system on the Potomac River Bridge in Charles County.

Two electrically operated bells are to replace existing air horns on the span on U. S. 301 between Ludlow Ferry and a point near Dahlgren, Va.

New Blood Test Detects "Hidden" Heart Attacks

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—A simple new blood test for detecting "hidden" heart attacks was hailed today as the most important forward step in diagnosis since the electrocardiograph was introduced early in the century.

Dr. Frank P. Foster of the Lahey Clinic, Boston, described the test—called transaminase determination—at the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn.

The test is designed to detect incidents of heart damage known as myocardial infarction. This occurs when blood supply to a portion of the heart muscle is blocked off by a clot or narrowing of an artery. The affected portion of the heart then dies.

Quick and accurate diagnosis and proper treatment often can mean the difference between life and death.

But heart attack symptoms can be confusing. Many other conditions mimic them.

The electrocardiograph has been the chief tool for showing what has happened, but the heart can play queer tricks. Dr. Foster said electrocardiograph changes may be completely absent or slow to appear. Such changes also may be noted when heart disease is not involved.

The blood test is based on the fact that dying heart muscle cells release the enzyme transaminase into the blood stream. This enzyme is measured photoelectrically.

American Can Plans To Spend 27 Million

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP) — The American Can Co. today announced plans for installation of 27 million dollars worth of new facilities to combat rising tin and steel plate costs.

William C. Stolk, president of the container firm, said American Can will install the equipment to process tin and steel plate from continuous strips rather than from the pre-cut sheets used now.

The equipment will allow American Can to take its plate in coils before it has been inspected, chemically treated or cut into sheets, Stolk said. "We will perform these operations in our own plants instead of having the steel mills perform them at their cost plus a profit," he said.

He said the new program will enable American Can to process between 75 and 85 per cent of the steel and tin plate it uses.

The average farmer in the United States uses his tractor 700 hours a year.

The percentage of car-owning American families having two or more automobiles is nearly 14.

Chest Wall Artery Used To Nourish Heart Muscle

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—A Canadian surgeon said recently that the switching of a chest wall artery to serve blood-starved heart muscle has proven highly successful.

The technique—dislodging the mammary artery and implanting it in the heart—was developed by Dr. Arthur Vineberg of Montreal, who said the arteries he transplanted actually grew and sent out branches.

Dr. Vineberg, who has used the method for nourishment of hearts whose normal arteries were blocked, reported his experiences to members of the American College of Chest Physicians at their 22nd annual meeting.

During the 11 years he has performed the operation, Dr. Vineberg said, he was able to examine the hearts of eight patients after death from various causes which occurred months to years after the surgery.

"There was only one blocked artery among the eight cases studied," he said.

"In the other seven hearts, the implanted arteries were shown to be widely open."

The operation is used, he said, in cases where the normal heart artery is blocked. "The implanted artery bypasses the blocked coronary artery which causes the patient's disability," he said.

"Since the man got better," said Dr. Vineberg, "it is logical to assume that the artery was sending blood into the heart to relieve the starved heart muscle."

Dr. Vineberg emphasized that his experiments had shown that the operation had a "low operative mortality" when performed in properly selected circumstances. The artery implant has its best chance of success among patients who suffer no pain while resting, he said.

Dr. G. C. McMillan collaborated with Dr. Vineberg in preparing the report. Both are members of the department of pathology and surgery of the Royal Victorian Hospital in Montreal.

During World War II, as much as 30 per cent of the U. S. egg production was sold as dried or frozen, but the percentage has dropped to seven per cent in recent months.

County Road Easement Setup Attacked

The practice of demanding easements in addition to a 40-foot right-of-way was questioned yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Commissioners.

For the past few years, the County Roads Department and the County Commissioners have required for the construction of a road a 40-foot right-of-way plus easements from property owners who reside along the thoroughfare.

This easement feature of the road work was brought to light when a group from Avenue E of Potomac Park Addition appeared before the board, wanting their street fixed.

One of the residents of Avenue E, Ward Jamison, said he had no opposition to the 40-foot right-of-way, but objected to the easement clause.

He said the paper required from property owners would allow the roads department to put outlets for culverts and other drains on their properties.

But William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Commissioners, pointed out that this policy has been set up for several years, and added that the county does not make roads over 18 feet in width.

He remarked that the remaining part of the right-of-way is required for ditching and drainage.

Commissioner James Orr observed that the county has never gone over 40 feet width in its new roads.

Jamison then asked why the easement clause is included in the agreement if it is not used.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, explained that the county follows the form established by the State Roads Commission. He said it is the usual form that is followed in other counties.

That led to a remark by the third commissioner, C. N. Wilkinson, who said he felt the easement part should be written out of the agreement, and added that "surely 40 feet is sufficient width for road building and draining."

Commissioner Lemmert said the present system "has worked out fine."

He observed that crews are working on Harold Street in LaVale, where property owners followed the county's procedure.

Five, six or seven streets or roads have been improved through this procedure, he added.

Wilkinson then declared: "Harold Street should have been done eight years ago. The state agreed to go along with the project then, but it was stopped and not allowed to go through."

The group accompanied by Wesley A. McGraw, and George Baumgartner noted the dangerous condition of the road which leads onto Route 220.

They were told they would be given consideration in the Roads Department's program.

Miss Rice plans to work at Johns Hopkins Hospital in the fall.

A 1953 graduate of Allegany High School, Miss Rice was presented the Welcome Home Award, and Franklin C. Ankeney Memorial Award for the highest average in mathematics at Allegany. She was also presented the Allegany Camper Club award for second highest scholastic average.

Mrs. Harvey E. Biggs, Atlanta, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hogan, Baltimore, attended the graduation Saturday.

Broken Mower Blade Cuts Flintstone Man

A young Flintstone area man suffered bad cuts of the body yesterday when a cutter blade on a mowing machine flew off and hit him in the side.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday was Marshall Lee Fletcher, 22, of RD 1, Flintstone.

Attaches said he had two very deep lacerations of the left side.

College Courses May Be Offered Here

The Junior Association of Commerce is conducting a survey to determine interest in the establishment in this area of evening classes in college-level courses by the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University of Maryland.

Letters and questionnaires are being sent 127 clubs and groups, according to William T. Russell Jr., chairman of the Jaycee education committee. Members of his committee are Gilbert Bohn and Albert Helmick. They are being assisted by Arthur Davis, Alvin Goodman and John R. MacVeigh.

Russell said the chief problem in connection with the proposed program is a requirement that a minimum of 25 persons must enroll in a particular course before a college can offer it. Through the questionnaires, the committee will know if there is sufficient interest. Additional questionnaires are available at the Jaycee office in the Liberty Trust Company building.

Replies must be on hand by July 10, Russell emphasized.

The questionnaire lists courses which the college has learned by experience are most popular. But almost any course the college gives can be made available locally if there is enough interest. Only exceptions are courses requiring laboratory work since there are no such facilities available here.

The program may be categorized as follows: (a) Students enroll in one or more courses merely to gain information for self-improvement or to help them in their work; (b) students pursuing a bachelor's degree; or (c) graduate students pursuing a graduate program.

Fees for courses are based on $10 per credit hour. In addition, there is a $10 matriculation fee payable at time of the first registration. Average cost of textbooks is $6 a course. The maximum number of credit hours that can be taken in any one semester is six.

Catalogues are available at the Jaycee office, Cumberland Free Public Library, the LaVale Library and Fort Hill High School.

County Road Easement Setup Attacked

The practice of demanding easements in addition to a 40-foot right-of-way was questioned yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Commissioners.

For the past few years, the County Roads Department and the County Commissioners have required for the construction of a road a 40-foot right-of-way plus easements from property owners who reside along the thoroughfare.

This easement feature of the road work was brought to light when a group from Avenue E of Potomac Park Addition appeared before the board, wanting their street fixed.

One of the residents of Avenue E, Ward Jamison, said he had no opposition to the 40-foot right-of-way, but objected to the easement clause.

He said the paper required from property owners would allow the roads department to put outlets for culverts and other drains on their properties.

But William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Commissioners, pointed out that this policy has been set up for several years, and added that the county does not make roads over 18 feet in width.

He remarked that the remaining part of the right-of-way is required for ditching and drainage.

Commissioner James Orr observed that the county has never gone over 40 feet width in its new roads.

Jamison then asked why the easement clause is included in the agreement if it is not used.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, explained that the county follows the form established by the State Roads Commission. He said it is the usual form that is followed in other counties.

That led to a remark by the third commissioner, C. N. Wilkinson, who said he felt the easement part should be written out of the agreement, and added that "surely 40 feet is sufficient width for road building and draining."

Commissioner Lemmert said the present system "has worked out fine."

He observed that crews are working on Harold Street in LaVale, where property owners followed the county's procedure.

Five, six or seven streets or roads have been improved through this procedure, he added.

Wilkinson then declared: "Harold Street should have been done eight years ago. The state agreed to go along with the project then, but it was stopped and not allowed to go through."

The group accompanied by Wesley A. McGraw, and George Baumgartner noted the dangerous condition of the road which leads onto Route 220.

They were told they would be given consideration in the Roads Department's program.

Brotemarkle Co. Is Low Bidder On Bridge Job

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company, Inc., this city, was the low bidder on the contract to build a new bridge across Jennings Run in Corriganville when bids were opened yesterday by the State Roads Commission in Baltimore.

The Brotemarkle firm bid $147,028.50. The only other aspirant for the work was the George Construction Company, also of this city, which entered a figure of $153,947.40.

The present birdge will be relocated from its hazardous position on Route 36 and replaced with a single span beam bridge.

It will be 82 feet long with the road width 50 feet. The approaches will be let out under separate contract.

Bids were opened on another project of extreme interest to Allegany and Garrett countians, that for test boring on the west side of Polish and Martin mountains.

This work is preparatory to relocating and modernizing these two slopes.

Tinney Drilling Company of Grafton, W. Va., was low bidder with $8,653 while Equipment and Supplies, Inc., of Pittsburgh, submitted a $10,840 bid.

The State Roads Commission noted that rock formations beneath the surface of the proposed relocation of the highway play a big part in its construction.

The commission has announced earlier this year that it hopes to get the west side of Polish Mountain under contract by this fall.

Work is already under way on relocating the east slope of Martin Mountain.

Hudson Nix New Amcelle Plant Personnel Chief

The appointment of Hudson Nix as personnel manager and Bernia B. Lucas as assistant personnel manager at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation of America was announced yesterday by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager.

Nix came to Amcelle last year from Rome, Ga., where he had been employed by Celanese for 22 years. He held the position of assistant personnel manager at the Rome plant before his transfer here in the same capacity.

During his employment at the Rome plant, Nix became well known as a free lance writer. His articles have appeared in This Week, American, Liberty and more than 50 other magazines and newspapers. A number of his articles have been reprinted in high school text books and anthologies.

Nix attended North Georgia College at Dahlonega and completed courses at the University of Georgia and Georgia Institute of Technology after employment at Rome.

Lucas came here as training supervisor from West Virginia University where he had been an instructor in extension.

He was educated at Duke University where he gained an A.B. degree in education and from Cornell University where he received an M.S. degree in industrial and labor relations.

During World War II he served a tour of duty in the Navy. Prior to his teaching appointment at West Virginia he had held positions with Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Company, Mining Division of Armco Steel Corporation and North American Coal Corporation.

He and his family reside at LaVale.

Brotemarkle Co. Is Low Bidder On Bridge Job

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company, Inc., this city, was the low bidder on the contract to build a new bridge across Jennings Run in Corriganville when bids were opened yesterday by the State Roads Commission in Baltimore.

The Brotemarkle firm bid $147,028.50. The only other aspirant for the work was the George Construction Company, also of this city, which entered a figure of $153,947.40.

The present birdge will be relocated from its hazardous position on Route 36 and replaced with a single span beam bridge.

It will be 82 feet long with the road width 50 feet. The approaches will be let out under separate contract.

Bids were opened on another project of extreme interest to Allegany and Garrett countians, that for test boring on the west side of Polish and Martin mountains.

This work is preparatory to relocating and modernizing these two slopes.

Tinney Drilling Company of Grafton, W. Va., was low bidder with $8,653 while Equipment and Supplies, Inc., of Pittsburgh, submitted a $10,840 bid.

The State Roads Commission noted that rock formations beneath the surface of the proposed relocation of the highway play a big part in its construction.

The commission has announced earlier this year that it hopes to get the west side of Polish Mountain under contract by this fall.

County Accepts Asphalt Bid

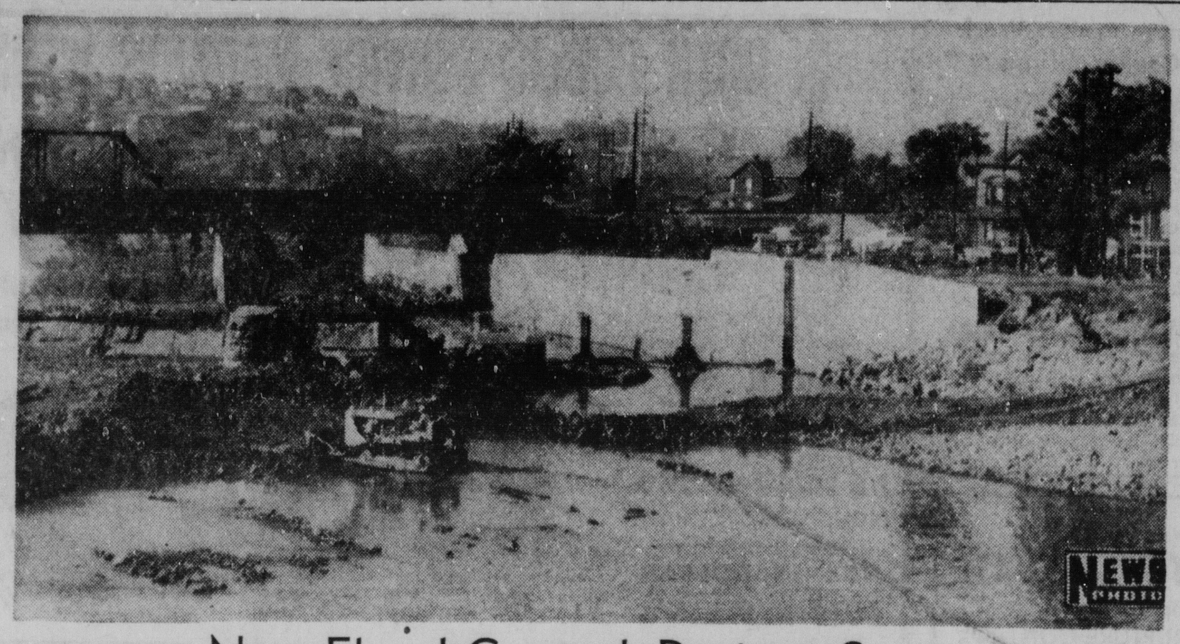
A bid from the Garland Petroleum Company, 12-18 West Roberts Street, to furnish 200,000 gallons of emulsified asphalt to Allegany County for the fiscal year starting July 1 was accepted yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The Garland bid of 12.8 cents per gallon in minimum lots of 3,000 gallons was the only one submitted to the commissioners last Friday. The same company has been supplying asphalt this year and the bid acceptance was recommended by County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

A reminder of the annual meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners was received yesterday. It will be held July 14 at the George Washington Hotel in Ocean City.

William H. Lemmert, board president, said the county undoubtedly will be represented at the July meeting.

More than 78 million persons in the United States carry life insurance.



New Flood Control Project Starts

Workmen of the George F. Hazelwood Company are shown starting work on the Wills Creek Channel Section 4. The first objective of the local company, which won the contract on a low bid of $2,854,253, is to drop the level of the water in the creek in the vicinity of the old industrial dam. A coffer dam is being started near the intake lock of the old C&O Canal at the mouth of Wills Creek. The Western Maryland Railway bridge across the Potomac River can be seen in the background.

McGeady Spent

the bank followed Sorensen to the witness stand in the final hour before Judge Watkins adjourned the second day's proceedings at 4 p.m. The trial will resume at 10 a.m. today.

Harry C. Landis, 513 Patterson Avenue, vice president and cashier of the bank, said he could find the complete bank record for only two of the 16 days on which the checks in controversy were cashed. They were February 28 and April 22, 1955. He turned these records over to the FBI.

Albert W. Tindal, president of the bank, who was the first witness called when the government began its case Monday morning, was called back again to explain the scope of the last audit of the bank before the shortage in the White account was discovered.

Worked At Window

On cross examination by Walsh, Tindal acknowledged that on occasions during rush hours at the bank he had got someone to unlock the cash drawer of a teller who was out to lunch so he could operate the window himself.

Francis Ray Blose, a First National vice-president, whose desk was situated near McGeady's window, said he never had any occasion to observe anyone going into McGeady's cash box.

Two women tellers were the last to testify. Mrs. Rebecca S. Symons, 738 Greene Street, and Mrs. Virginia Swach, 411 Washington Street, both denied that they had written any of the checks in question or had passed them through McGeady's work for the day.

It was testified Monday that cash check lists containing the checks cashed on the White account both February 28 and April 22, 1955, contained the stamp of teller 16A, which was McGeady's number.

$1,000 Disappeared

Earlier yesterday, Theodore Victor Fier, former vice president and trust officer of the First National Bank, recalled under cross examination by Walsh that about four years ago when Ralph Doak left his teller's window for lunch a bundle of new currency containing about $1,000 in $1, $5, $10, and $20 bills disappeared and never was found. That was during the Christmas season.

Fier was followed to the stand yesterday morning by Thomas J. Reppe, of Baltimore, an FBI special agent, who said McGeady had admitted that the check lists for February 28, 1955, and April 22, 1955, which listed two of the 16 checks in controversy, were prepared by him.

Sorenson testified that McGeady had made a similar admission but denied getting any money. He said McGeady told him someone was "out to get" him.

Somerville and Martin E. Ferris, the assistant U. S. district attorneys, who are presenting the government's case, indicated late yesterday that they may conclude their case today.

because Brisk's Fluoride/85 not only gives you wonder-working Fluoride to strengthen tooth enamel, but provides a second, tested decay-fighter that starts working instantly . . . keeps working all day against the formation of decay-acids. Unless you get Brisk, you cannot get the benefits of Fluoride/85.

Only BRISK has FLUORIDE/85, gives extra protection Fluoride alone can't give—works best where you need it most Brisk's Fluoride concentrates in weak or "soft" spots where decay usually starts — combines with and becomes part of the tooth enamel — thus protects as no other decay-fighter can. And Brisk's stay-active decay-fighter reaches into crevices between teeth — starts working instantly to defeat decay.

WONDERFUL FLAVOR!
Helps keep breath fresh all day!
And there's no "tinny" aftertaste with new Brisk! Your mouth tastes sparkling cool and sweet! Brings out all the natural whiteness of teeth!

Convicts Volunteer For Cancer Fight

At a time when the nation's crime rate has reached a seriously high point and law officers and the Congress are adopting tougher measures to curb this national disgrace, it is gratifying to note that at least some of the men convicted of crimes are earnestly striving to regain a respectful place among their fellow countrymen.

One such case involves 96 prisoners of the Ohio penitentiary who have volunteered for a risky medical experiment. Despite the danger of the experiment and the fact that no promises or conditions were given the prisoners, when the penitentiary newspaper appealed for 25 volunteers, 96 answered the call.

Sponsored by the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute of New York and the Ohio State University's College of Medicine, the experiment will consist of injecting live cancer cells into the forearms of the volunteers in an effort to discover how a healthy body fights foreign cancerous tissue. Two weeks after the injection, the affected portion of one forearm will be removed for study. The other arm, also injected, will retain its cancerous cells for an indefinite period.

Various reasons were given by the prisoners for volunteering for the experiment. The majority said they had relatives who had either died or were suffering from the disease. But others expressed a desire to make amends for the wrongs for which they had been put behind bars. Some actually volunteered out of gratitude to the prison for the help it had given them.

The Ohio volunteers are not unique. Prisoners have given of their services, and lives, numerous times in the cause of science. But the men from Ohio are to be especially respected for the large numbers in which they turned out to be willing victims of the 20th Century's most dread disease.

These Days

On Voting

An organization which signs itself the "National Precinct Workers, Inc." with headquarters in Chicago, has issued a pamphlet entitled "Everything Is Booming but the Guns." It is a publicity pamphlet in favor of Eisenhower for President and was undoubtedly prepared with the best of intentions. How much good it will actually do, nobody will ever know because the vote-gathering value of such things can never be measured and the technique of politicians is to try everything, no matter how costly, in the hope that something works.

The Republicans firmly believe that Eisenhower is so popular that if all who are entitled to vote go to the polls, Eisenhower is bound to be elected. On the other hand, the Democrats need to find a candidate. After the California primaries, it is certain that Senator Estes Kefauver has been eliminated. It is less certain but quite probable that Adlai Stevenson has also been eliminated during the primaries. Therefore, the names of Averell Harriman, Senator Lyndon Johnson and Senator Stuart Symington will loom large as the convention is approached. Symington, in particular, seems to be growing in favor.

This Chicago pamphlet makes a very curious point: "Sure that their many organizations will get nearly all New Deal voters to the polls, the left-wing radio commentators and newspaper columnists are using a line of chatter designed to prevent an outpouring of votes such as we had in '52. 'The right to vote,' they say, 'is not a duty but a privilege.' They go on: 'The right not to vote is also an inherent privilege. No one has a right to tell you that you should vote.'

"This is typical of the brainwashing technique used by the left-wingers during political campaigns for nearly a quarter of a century. The fact that they have won all but one of the big elections is evidence that their devices are effective."

It would be interesting if the author of this document would produce the names of the left-wingers who for nearly a quarter of a century have taken this position. It would be very interesting to see a documentation of this. For so far as I have any records, both the Democratic and Republican left always advocated a large vote. It was in the Wendell Willkie campaign that the drums rolled and the radio blared for everybody to come out and vote whether they had anyone to vote for or not. However, it may be that this "National Precinct Workers, Inc." has contrary information. It might even be able to prove that William Z. Foster conducted a campaign of passive resistance to an election; if so, it must have been done in conspiratorial secrecy, for not a word of it was peeped anywhere.

The right to abstain from voting is inherent in the constitutional privilege of government by choice. In Stalin's day in Russia, when any kind of an election was held, those who abstained were regarded as counter-revolutionaries and enemies of the people. There was a logic in that attitude: only one name was presented, one ticket by one party. There was no freedom of choice; the election was an endorsement. Therefore those who refused to endorse a candidate were his enemies. As all candidates were Bolshevik professionals, abstention meant a rejection of the Communist party. Therefore, it was treason not to vote.

It would be of value to know what the logic of the "National Precinct Workers, Inc." is. It may be of the same order as a figure on the cover of the pamphlet. This figure is apparently a businessman because he holds a money-bag. He looks rich and prosperous and seems to be feeling very good. In his mouth is a cigar and in his waistcoat pocket are two cigars. The money-bag has on it the legend, $000,000,000 which as I read it equals nothing. In a word, his money-bag is a fraud, a bluff, a bladder pumped up with air, hot or cold, whichever is available.

What sense this makes, I do not recognize. Perhaps the cartoonist could not tell how much money to put into the bag but $000,000,000 is not speaking well of the Eisenhower or any other administration, and to get excited about a bagful of no dollars sounds very inflationary. And is it before or after taxes?

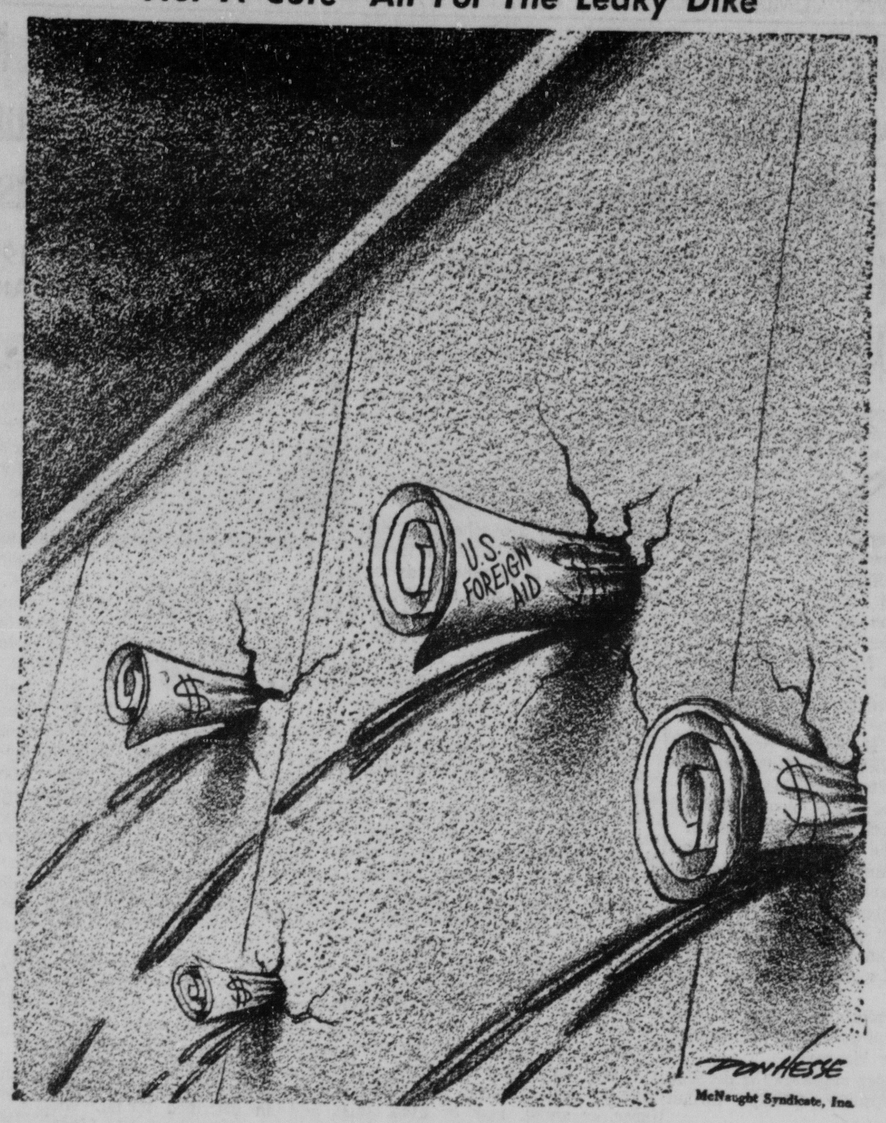
Not A Cure—All For The Leaky Dike



Ike's Ailment Illustrates Increasing Life Span

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Modern medical science has just given the world a dramatic exhibition of why the life span of man is increasing. For now the physicians who performed a surgical operation on President Eisenhower last week pronounce him as likely to be in better health than he was before.

What would have been a non-publicised, almost routine case of surgery became for all the people of the country to read an example of how nowadays the removal of an obstruction in the intestinal tract actually protects the individual against what might be a serious danger to him in the future.

Already the widespread knowledge disseminated about the President's bout with thrombosis last autumn has changed the attitude of millions of people who used to think a heart attack meant that a person became an invalid the rest of his life. Now they know that under proper care in most cases a normal life can be lived.

Sensational Attention

Naturally because in recent months the question of whether after an illness a president may or may not serve out his term has aroused nationwide discussion, any indisposition on the part of the man in the White House attracts sensational attention. Had it been anybody else, even a member of Congress, such a case of intestinal trouble would probably not have been recorded in the press at all and the question of whether any future incapacity was involved would hardly have been asked.

Many public men have undergone surgery in recent years without impairing their usefulness in the political arena. Adlai Stevenson has had two operations — one for kidney stones and later for gallstones. Harry Truman has had a gall bladder operation and removal of an infected appendix. Governor Harriman of New York was in the hospital a few weeks ago for an operation on the prostate gland. Nobody today assumes that for these three men the tenure of their political lives has in any way been shortened by their hospital experiences.

What happened to President Eisenhower last week gave a significant demonstration of how meticulously careful the President's physicians are in watching over his health. It confirms something the President himself said when he announced that he would run again, namely that he probably would be better taken care of because he was in the White House than he might be if he were in private life.

Frank And Open

Whenever illness, however slight, occurs, the President's faithful and able physician in constant attendance — Dr. Howard McC. Snyder —can summon in a matter of hours the very best doctors and specialists on any particular phase of medical practice.

There is also a frankness and openness about the way things are handled at the White House when anything of a medical nature arises. This reassures the Public. The fact that the President had experienced a stomach upset was announced first thing Friday morning. By afternoon he was at the wonderful medical center which Congress has provided at Walter Reed Hospital, primarily for military personnel but it can be used also by public officials generally.

By midafternoon of Friday, Dr. Snyder who knew that the President had been troubled off and on since 1949 with an irritation in the intestinal tract began considering the need for an operation. He couldn't be sure that it was advisable. There were other measures which could be taken temporarily to relieve the pain. But X-rays were made periodically and by 2 o'clock Saturday morning it was evident that the summoning of all the specialists had been a wise move. When they decided to operate at 3 a. m., the operating room and staff had been ready for hours for just such a decision.

Anybody else would have undergone the same routine at a hospital but, because it was the President of the United States, the headlines and the radio broadcast every single medical detail as soon as the operation was over. This correspondent followed the bulletins throughout Friday night and into the daylight hours of Saturday and was impressed by the promptness and comprehensiveness of the information furnished by the President's secretary, James Hagerty. He made every scrap of information instantly available. It certainly instills confidence that the American people in the future will continue to be given under this administration every essential fact about the President's health. It wasn't that way unfortunately under the Wilson or the Roosevelt administrations.

People Want Ike

What effect on the presidential contest of 1956 will all this have? No more than it has before. The Democrats will hesitate to make the President's health a real issue though they may nibble at it. Such tactics, however, can boomerang on them.

When the American people soon see Ike by television moving around again on the golf course and on his trips to Gettysburg and back, they will forget about the stomach upset of last week even as so many already have decided that a man with a history of a heart attack can live on for years thereafter.

The Gallup Polls taken since last autumn show that a majority of the people will vote for Ike irrespective of his past illnesses. They apparently want him at the helm as long as they can have him for, to an extraordinary degree, he has won their esteem and their affection.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The eyes of Texas are politically granulated and a bit astigmatic on the party side.

Every schoolchild is hep that Texas can split itself five ways. But do those delinquent stooges know Governor Shivers is trying to make it six?

The Gov. is still for Ike hook, line and dipsy. But Senator Johnson grabbed the fish.

The Gov. says he wouldn't vote for Adlai Stevenson if he was the last man on earth. Which wouldn't stop the last man on earth getting the nomination by default.

Texas is where they use barbed wire for dental floss. It's the world's only golf course where every divot must be capped.

Everybody with a spade to grind strikes oil. Senator Johnson did it in the primaries. But the Gov. is still in the driver's seat even if the mule has its head toward the wagon.

Youngster's Stuttering Should Be Nipped In Bud

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An Arizona speech pathologist was consulted by the parents of two sons with speech disorders. One was 4 and the other 6 and both children were having considerable difficulty. Treatment was started and the younger boy achieved more intelligible speech within a shorter time than was the case with his brother.

Meanwhile a 7-year-old stutterer was brought in for examination but the parents put off therapy. Nine years later they returned. The boy was attending high school and his stuttering was so severe it was doubtful that he could be helped.

Dr. Robert N. Plummer cited these and other examples in a recent issue of Arizona Medicine, to demonstrate the importance of treating speech disorders at an early age. He says that children learn how to talk more readily from birth to age 6 than during any other six-year period. The pre-school youngster is at an age when he is most curious and impressionable.

The longer defective speech habits exist after age 6 the more deeply rooted and difficult to correct they become. But this is only part of the story. Before going to school, most tots are not aware of their abnormal speech pattern; consequently, there is no psychological damage.

On the other hand, the youngster will be teased by his classmates about the defect. Children are brutally frank and mimic and poke fun at anyone who is different. The ensuing psychological trauma may have serious results if the stuttering child is given the impression that he is queer or not all there. Changes in personality may persist long after stuttering has been eliminated.

There are reasons for everything. Most fathers and mothers delay because they believe the child will outgrow the defect. Friends, relatives, neighbors, and associates may have an influence.

Dr. Plummer recalled the case of a child who had been started on a course of treatment and was doing well. The father suddenly called it off because the men at the shop had convinced him that the speech difficulty would be outgrown.

What are the chances that this will happen? An extensive test in an Arizona school system revealed that 22 per cent of all first graders and 18 per cent of all eighth graders had defective speech. In this respect, the proportion did not change much over the years. The decline thereafter will be less because the habit becomes more fixed with age.

TOMORROW: Sensitizing the skin to light.

CONVULSIONS WITH FEVER

Mrs. W. writes: Why do some children go into convulsions when they develop fever?

REPLY

Fever produced convulsions in children are comparable to the chills that accompany a rise in temperature in adults. No one knows why the immature brain reacts in this way. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on convulsions.

WEAK BACK

Mrs. H. Y. writes: Why does a virus infection make the back weak?

REPLY

Weakness stems from confinement in bed and not necessarily from the virus. The exception occurs when the polio virus affects the muscles of the back. Generalized weakness and fatigue often follow infections such as the flu. In such instances the individual feels weak all over, including the back.

SPINAL CYST

I. S. writes: What is the best treatment of pilonidal cyst?

REPLY

Surgery offers the best chance of permanent cure.

LANKY BOY

B. L. writes: I have a problem with my 17-year-old boy who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and very thin. Why is he so tall and thin as a rake?

REPLY

Somewhere along the line he inherited Long John genes. It is hard to grow tall and fat at the same time and if he lets well enough alone he will develop into a well proportioned man everyone will look up to. Meanwhile, we need basketball champions.

WATERY EYES

C. N. writes: What causes bleary eyes?

REPLY

This condition usually is associated with excess moisture due to increased tearing or to blockage of the tear ducts causing poor drainage.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Battling Mike Flaherty had taken an awful beating through 15 gruelling rounds, but at the finish the sports announcer insisted on dragging him up to the microphone. "Say anything," he ordered. "Your ma will be happy to know you're still alive!" The poor fighter staggered, held tight to the mike, and muttered, "Hello, who's calling?"

Two old college mates met after several years. One said glumbly, "I've a tough row to hoe, Jim. My wife's always trying to keep up with the Joneses."

"You're lucky," snapped the other. "Mine's trying to keep up with the Rockefellers."

The great lovers of history, observes Bertrand Lord Russell, would be looked upon as juvenile delinquents today. Helen of Troy, for instance, was exactly 12 years old when Paris carried her off to Sparta.

Mrs. Eisenhower Has Had Life Full Of Joy, Loneliness As Ike's Wife

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The birds wake early in the trees outside Walter Reed Hospital. . . . Happy birds, twittering birds, nothing to worry about, not even worried that a great man lay a few feet from the branches in which they roosted. . . . It's cool and quiet in the trees around the hospital—quiet except for the birds—but Mamie Eisenhower couldn't sleep, didn't want to sleep. . . She envied the birds . . . .She had time to look back over long vistas of life with a man who twice in the past six months had been quite ill. . . .Memorable vistas of life they were—full of joy and full of loneliness. . . .An Army wife has to be lonesome. She knows, as few people know, what it means to have wars, maneuvers, preparations for war, more war—endless successions of transfers and crises, crises and transfers, new posts, new friends, new canasta partners, new houses, new servants—if you are lucky enough to afford or find a servant—new schools for John.

Mamie Eisenhower looked back on those years. . . .She could almost see some of those Army camps among the trees outside the hospital. She could see those rows of officers' homes, all the same, all built for efficiency and economy, not for beauty, all built by a Congress which was always balancing the budget, never worried about Army wives. . . .Pleasant people at Army posts. . . .But never a home of your own.

A Major In Washington.

She could look back a long way . . . .Washington was pleasant in the Hoover administration. Ike was a major then, not much of a salary—only about $3,000 a year. And it seemed as if he would never get promoted. But the dollar went farther then. . . .He had an office on the edge of Doug MacArthur's chief of staff headquarters in the old State, War and Navy Building, that ugly old mausoleum which housed most of the War Department and all of the State Department then. Today her husband's White House staff has taken over the whole mausoleum . . . . How times have changed!. . . .And the State Department has three or four buildings to itself now, while the military services have the biggest office building in the world. . . . Those were happy days, uncomplicated days, even if Ike hadn't been promoted for years. . . .Then came the Philippines. MacArthur became commander of the new Philippine army and Ike went with him to help organize it. Glamorous days, different days, easy housekeeping days, languid tropic days.

Separation Of War

Then the rumblings of war. Mamie came home, all the wives came home. . . "Take good care of Ike," she had told Doug MacArthur, and MacArthur had taken her at her word. . . .Those were the first lonesome months of that prewar period when the White House knew, the Army knew, war was coming, but nobody knew when or where. . . .Ike came home from the Philippines. MacArthur sent him home. Something had happened between them, she never knew exactly what. . . .Ike went to Louisiana for the maneuvers, made a great record, began to get promoted—rapidly—right up the ladder. . . .Then to England, North Africa, Italy. . . .The war was on full blast. . . .Once he flew back with Harry Butcher on a surprise Christmas visit. It gave Mamie and Ruth Butcher the only thrill of the whole war. . . .But that was the only visit during the war. . . . Those were the lonesomest years of all, depressing years. . . .The Wardman Park Hotel where she and Ruth lived seemed bleak. . . . Gay with war widows and munitions peddlers to be sure, but so superficial, so dreary underneath . . . .Then came rumors, disturbing rumors, rumors that always crop up when soldiers are away from their womenfolk for years at a time. . . .All that, of course, is part of war. And like wars it passed . . . .It was lonesome, however, as lonesome as the room in the Walter Reed Hospital with the birds so happy in the trees outside.

Paris And Gettysburg

The years in Paris at SHAPE were happier. It was fun picking your own house instead of living in a hotel or a home picked for you by a superior officer at an Army post. . . .Then Ike decided to run for president. Things began to get lonesome again. . . .Came the campaign, the whistle-stop tour through Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska. She had enjoyed that, on the whole, partly because everyone had made her feel so necessary. She was part of it all, a very necessary part, politicians said. And when Ike told the crowd: "And now I want you to meet my Mamie," and she came out on the platform to be greeted by all those smiling, cheering friendly people—well it was worth all those years of loneliness. . . .For she was helping Ike . . . .She didn't know much about politics, but she could tell by the crowds and the politicians that she was a necessary, very necessary part of the political picture . . . .It was the first time in her long years of being an Army wife, since John was born, that she really felt necessary.

Life in the White House was different and interesting, very different. But sometimes just as lonesome as an Army post. . . .You don't see much of your husband when he's President of the United States. If it wasn't Congress and the cabinet that kept him busy, it was trips to this place and that . . . .Being First Lad was fun at times, but she still didn't have a home of her own. . . .That was why she had so much fun at Gettysburg, planning, buying furniture, landscaping, dreaming of the days when she could settle down once and for all in their home. . . .That was the one good thing about Ike's heart attack—they could now retire to Gettysburg. He wouldn't want to run again. . . .After Denver he came back to Gettysburg. But she couud see that to her husband Gettysburg seemed humdrum and unexciting after being the center of the world in Washington. . . . George Allen hinted that she had mothered Ike too much, worried over him too much at Gettysburg. But she knew the truth. The truth is that when a man has spent years in an active career it's difficult to stop. . . .And she wondered, looking out at the trees and that long vista of her life full of joy and full of loneliness, whether he would stop now. Or would the politicians once again demand that he go forward?

On The Line

By Bob Considine

WASHINGTON (INS)—The only contact between President Eisenhower and the world after his September heart attack and his operation last week was a hard-jawed, hard-working Harp named Jim Hagerty.

Hagerty's choice of words to depict the condition of the President and the state of the recovery was, in each case, an immensely hard one. He could utter no gray words; only clear-cut black and white ones. Billions of dollars in paper profits were at stake on the stock market. Vast corporations might hesitate to embark on this or that money-spending program because of Hagerty's translation into basic English of the medical obtusions of doctors in attendance. Unemployment was involved. The policies of foreign nations toward us were hanging in subtle balance. A political party that had not had a whiff of the White House since 1932 until Eisenhower made it 20 years later conld (and can, only hold its breath and wait with anxiety each new word from Hagerty's lips.

Tough And Great

I thought he was especially tough and great at about 5:30 Saturday morning when he barged down to the improvised press room that had been set up in Water Reed, two decks under the operating room. His champ was still out like a light, but the ordeal was over. The President had been saved from what have been a gangrenous attack that could have cost him his life. Jim had sweated out the story and the situation for 24 hours without closing an eye.

Jim's eyeballs were bleeding and he was punchy from the pressure and the loss of sleep. But he sat down at the long press table and in the most measured way told a hundred news-famished reporters the story. In the middle of it, he said something like, "It was a general anesthetic."

A reporter irreverently gagged, "What's General Anesthetic's first name?" Jim looked at him for a long moment. There were rings under the bags below the circles beneath his eyes.

"Can I go on?" he asked. On another occasion Jim might have sprung at his questioner's jugular.

When he was finished with the bulletin and had answered all the questions that followed, Jim repeated the performance for radio and then for the TV and newsreel cameras — including saying the same thing several times when newsreel cameramen had to change lenses for a close-up or ran out of film.

Then he raced home, took a shave and shower, put on fresh clothes and sped back to Walter Reed. What with the White House photographers dinner of Thursday night, I don't think Hagerty had three hours sleep in three days. Yet no man in the nation or in the world itself had to be more careful of what he said or did. A slip of the tongue, a fog of fatigue, even a worried glance would mean so much.

No Talk Of Politics

Jim says nobody is going to talk politics to the President. That's for sure. Nobody dared after the September heart attack. Many are of the opinion that Eisenhower would have retired from politics, except to campaign for a Republican successor, if he had not been hit with the heart attack. Now, nobody knows for sure what he will do. And that goes for the man who speaks for him—Hagerty.

As a practical politician, which he is in addition to being a first class reporter. Jim had to contend with a new element in the world—the doctors who pass judgments on Eisenhower's ability to run. They're a brave lot, those croakers. Eisenhower was still unconscious and with tubes in his nose the other day when, in answer to questions flung by reporters, the doctors spoke of his tremendous recuperation and mapped out that busy future which included attending to business this week, leaving the hospital next week, playing golf by mid-August and running again. When they aren't prescribing milk of magnesia for Eisenhower, they're running him for office—and it's Jim's rough job to translate what they say and keep them from taking over the work of the GOP nominating committee.

Convicts Volunteer For Cancer Fight

At a time when the nation's crime rate has reached a seriously high point and law officers and the Congress are adopting tougher measures to curb this national disgrace, it is gratifying to note that at least some of the men convicted of crimes are earnestly striving to regain a respectful place among their fellow countrymen.

One such case involves 96 prisoners of the Ohio penitentiary who have volunteered for a risky medical experiment. Despite the danger of the experiment and the fact that no promises or conditions were given the prisoners, when the penitentiary newspaper appealed for 25 volunteers, 96 answered the call.

Sponsored by the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute of New York and the Ohio State University's College of Medicine, the experiment will consist of injecting live cancer cells into the forearms of the volunteers in an effort to discover how a healthy body fights foreign cancerous tissue. Various reasons were given by the prisoners for volunteering for the experiment. The majority said they had relatives who had either died or were suffering from the disease. But others expressed a desire to make amends for the wrongs for which they had been put behind bars. Some actually volunteered out of gratitude to the prison for the help it had given them.

The Ohio volunteers are not unique. Prisoners have given of their services, and lives, numerous times in the cause of science. But the men from Ohio are to be especially respected for the large numbers in which they turned out to be willing victims of the 20th Century's most dread disease.

Foster conducted a campaign of passive resistance to an election; if so, it must have been done in conspiratorial secrecy, for not a word of it was peeped anywhere.

The right to abstain from voting is inherent in the constitutional privilege of government by choice. In Stalin's day in Russia, when any kind of an election was held, those who abstained were regarded as counter-revolutionaries and enemies of the people. There was a logic in that attitude: only one name was presented, one ticket by one party. There was no freedom of choice; the election was an endorsement. Therefore those who refused to endorse a candidate were his enemies. As all candidates were Bolshevik professionals, abstention meant a rejection of the Communist party. Therefore, it was treason not to vote.

It would be of value to know what the logic of the "National Precinct Workers, Inc." is. It may be of the same order as a figure on the cover of the pamphlet. This figure is apparently a businessman because he holds a money-bag. He looks rich and prosperous and seems to be feeling very good. In his mouth is a cigar and in his waistcoat pocket are two cigars. The money-bag has on it the legend, $000,000,000 which as I read it equals nothing. In a word, his money-bag is a fraud, a bluff, a bladder pumped up with air, hot or cold, whichever is available.

What sense this makes, I do not recognize. Perhaps the cartoonist could not tell how much money to put into the bag but $000,000,000 is not speaking well of the Eisenhower or any other administration, and to get excited about a bagful of no dollars sounds very inflationary. And is it before or after taxes?

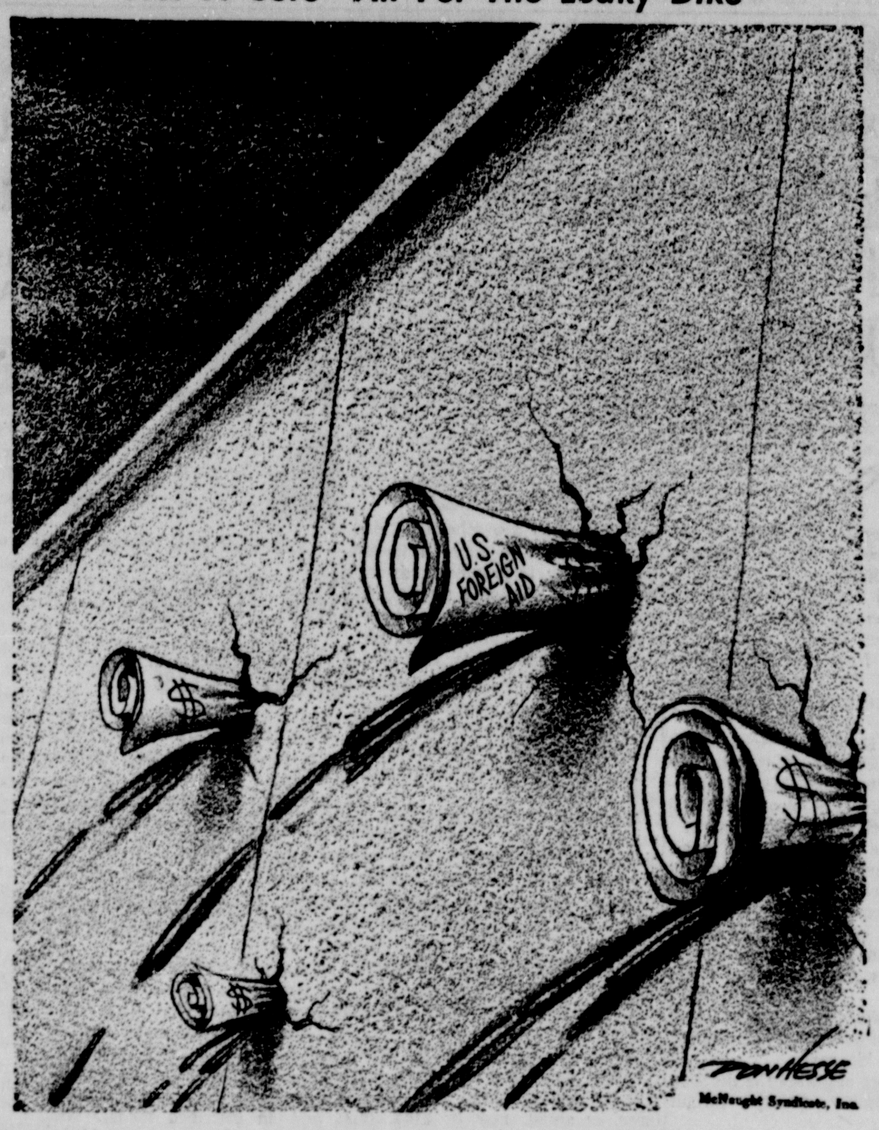
Not A Cure—All For The Leaky Dike



Ike's Ailment Illustrates Increasing Life Span

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Modern medical science has just given the world a dramatic exhibition of why the life span of man is increasing. For now the physicians who performed a surgical operation on President Eisenhower last week pronounce him as likely to be in better health than he was before.

What would have been a non-publicised, almost routine case of surgery became for all the people of the country to read an example of how nowadays the removal of an obstruction in the intestinal tract actually protects the individual against what might be a serious danger to him in the future.

Already the widespread knowledge disseminated about the President's bout with thrombosis last autumn has changed the attitude of millions of people who used to think a heart attack meant that a person became an invalid the rest of his life. Now they know that under proper care in most cases a normal life can be lived.

Sensational Attention

Naturally because in recent months the question of whether after an illness a president may or may not serve out his term has aroused nationwide discussion, any indisposition on the part of the man in the White House attracts sensational attention. Had it been anybody else, even a member of Congress, such a case of intestinal trouble would probably not have been recorded in the press at all and the question of whether any future incapacity was involved would hardly have been asked.

Many public men have undergone surgery in recent years without impairing their usefulness in the political arena. Adlai Stevenson has had two operations — one for kidney stones and later for gallstones. Harry Truman has had a gall bladder operation and removal of an infected appendix. Governor Harriman of New York was in the hospital a few weeks ago for an operation on the prostate gland. Nobody today assumes that for these three men the tenure of their political lives has in any way been shortened by their hospital experiences.

What happened to President Eisenhower last week gave a significant demonstration of how meticulously careful the President's physicians are in watching over his health. It confirms something the President himself said when he announced that he would run again, namely that he probably would be better taken care of because he was in the White House than he might be if he were in private life.

Frank And Open

Whenever illness, however slight, occurs, the President's faithful and able physician in constant attendance — Dr. Howard McC. Snyder —can summon in a matter of hours the very best doctors and specialists on any particular phase of medical practice.

There is also a frankness and openness about the way things are handled at the White House when anything of a medical nature arises. This reassures the Public. The fact that the President had experienced a stomach upset was announced first thing Friday morning. By afternoon he was at the wonderful medical center which Congress has provided at Walter Reed Hospital, primarily for military personnel but it can be used also by public officials generally.

By midafternoon of Friday, Dr. Snyder who knew that the President had been troubled off and on since 1949 with an irritation in the intestinal tract began considering the need for an operation. He couldn't be sure that it was advisable. There were other measures which could be taken temporarily to relieve the pain. But X-rays were made periodically and by 2 o'clock Saturday morning it was evident that the summoning of all the specialists had been a wise move. When they decided to operate at 3 a. m., the operating room and staff had been ready for hours for just such a decision.

Anybody else would have undergone the same routine at a hospital but, because it was the President of the United States, the headlines and the radio broadcast every single medical detail as soon as the operation was over. This correspondent followed the bulletins throughout Friday night and into the daylight hours of Saturday and was impressed by the promptness and comprehensiveness of the information furnished by the President's secretary, James Hagerty. He made every scrap of information instantly available. It certainly instills confidence that the American people in the future will continue to be given under this administration every essential fact about the President's health. It wasn't that way unfortunately under the Wilson or the Roosevelt administrations.

People Want Ike

What effect on the presidential contest of 1956 will all this have? No more than it has before. The Democrats will hesitate to make the President's health a real issue though they may nibble at it. Such tactics, however, can boomerang on them.

When the American people soon see Ike by television moving around again on the golf course and on his trips to Gettysburg and back, they will forget about the stomach upset of last week even as so many already have decided that a man with a history of a heart attack can live on for years thereafter.

The Gallup Polls taken since last autumn show that a majority of the people will vote for Ike irrespective of his past illnesses. They apparently want him at the helm as long as they can have him for, to an extraordinary degree, he has won their esteem and their affection.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The eyes of Texas are politically granulated and a bit astigmatic on the party side.

Every schoolchild is hep that Texas can split itself five ways. But do those delinquent stooges know Governor Shivers is trying to make it six?

The Gov. is still for Ike hook, line and dipsy. But Senator Johnson grabbed the fish.

The Gov. says he wouldn't vote for Adlai Stevenson if he was the last man on earth. Which wouldn't stop the last man on earth getting the nomination by default.

Texas is where they use barbed wire for dental floss. It's the world's only golf course where every divot must be capped.

Everybody with a spade to grind strikes oil. Senator Johnson did it in the primaries. But the Gov. is still in the driver's seat even if the mule has its head toward the wagon.

Youngster's Stuttering Should Be Nipped In Bud

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An Arizona speech pathologist was consulted by the parents of two sons with speech disorders. One was 4 and the other 6 and both children were having considerable difficulty. Treatment was started and the younger boy achieved more intelligible speech within a shorter time than was the case with his brother.

Meanwhile a 7-year-old stutterer was brought in for examination but the parents put off therapy. Nine years later they returned. The boy was attending high school and his stuttering was so severe it was doubtful that he could be helped.

Dr. Robert N. Plummer cited these and other examples in a recent issue of Arizona Medicine, to demonstrate the importance of treating speech disorders at an early age. He says that children learn how to talk more readily from birth to age 6 than during any other six-year period. The pre-school youngster is at an age when he is most curious and impressionable.

The longer defective speech habits exist after age 6 the more deeply rooted and difficult to correct they become. But this is only part of the story. Before going to school, most tots are not aware of their abnormal speech pattern; consequently, there is no psychological damage.

On the other hand, the youngster will be teased by his classmates about the defect. Children are brutally frank and mimic and poke fun at anyone who is different. The ensuing psychological trauma may have serious results if the stuttering child is given the impression that he is queer or not all there. Changes in personality may persist long after stuttering has been eliminated.

There are reasons for everything. Most fathers and mothers delay because they believe the child will outgrow the defect. Friends, relatives, neighbors, and associates may have an influence.

Dr. Plummer recalled the case of a child who had been started on a course of treatment and was doing well. The father suddenly called it off because the men at the shop had convinced him that the speech difficulty would be outgrown.

What are the chances that this will happen? An extensive test in an Arizona school system revealed that 22 per cent of all first graders and 18 per cent of all eighth graders had defective speech. In this respect, the proportion did not change much over the years. The decline thereafter will be less because the habit becomes more fixed with age.

TOMORROW: Sensitizing the skin to light.

CONVULSIONS WITH FEVER

Mrs. W. writes: Why do some children go into convulsions when they develop fever?

REPLY

Fever produced convulsions in children are comparable to the chills that accompany a rise in temperature in adults. No one knows why the immature brain reacts in this way. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on convulsions.

WEAK BACK

Mrs. H. Y. writes: Why does a virus infection make the back weak?

REPLY

Weakness stems from confinement in bed and not necessarily from the virus. The exception occurs when the polio virus affects the muscles of the back. Generalized weakness and fatigue often follow infections such as the flu. In such instances the individual feels weak all over, including the back.

SPINAL CYST

I. S. writes: What is the best treatment of pilonidal cyst?

REPLY

Surgery offers the best chance of permanent cure.

LANKY BOY

B. L. writes: I have a problem with my 17-year-old boy who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and very thin. Why is he so tall and thin as a rake?

REPLY

Somewhere along the line he inherited Long John genes. It is hard to grow tall and fat at the same time and if he lets well enough alone he will develop into a well proportioned man everyone will look up to. Meanwhile, we need basketball champions.

WATERY EYES

C. N. writes: What causes bleary eyes?

REPLY

This condition usually is associated with excess moisture due to increased tearing or to blockage of the tear ducts causing poor drainage.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Battling Mike Flaherty had taken an awful beating through 15 gruelling rounds, but at the finish the sports announcer insisted on dragging him up to the microphone. "Say anything," he ordered. "Your ma will be happy to know you're still alive!" The poor fighter staggered, held tight to the mike, and muttered, "Hello, who's calling?"

Two old college mates met after several years. One said glumbly, "I've a tough row to hoe, Jim. My wife's always trying to keep up with the Joneses."

"You're lucky," snapped the other. "Mine's trying to keep up with the Rockefellers."

The great lovers of history, observes Bertrand Lord Russell, would be looked upon as juvenile delinquents today. Helen of Troy, for instance, was exactly 12 years old when Paris carried her off to Sparta.

Mrs. Eisenhower Has Had Life Full Of Joy, Loneliness As Ike's Wife

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The birds wake early in the trees outside Walter Reed Hospital. . . . Happy birds, twittering birds, nothing to worry about, not even worried that a great man lay a few feet from the branches in which they roosted. . . . It's cool and quiet in the trees around the hospital—quiet except for the birds—but Mamie Eisenhower couldn't sleep, didn't want to sleep. . . She envied the birds . . . .She had time to look back over long vistas of life with a man who twice in the past six months had been quite ill. . . .Memorable vistas of life they were—full of joy and full of loneliness. . . .An Army wife has to be lonesome. She knows, as few people know, what it means to have wars, maneuvers, preparations for war, more war—endless successions of transfers and crises, crises and transfers, new posts, new friends, new canasta partners, new houses, new servants—if you are lucky enough to afford or find a servant—new schools for John.

Mamie Eisenhower looked back on those years. . . .She could almost see some of those Army camps among the trees outside the hospital. She could see those rows of officers' homes, all the same, all built for efficiency and economy, not for beauty, all built by a Congress which was always balancing the budget, never worried about Army wives. . . .Pleasant people at Army posts. . . .But never a home of your own.

A Major In Washington.

She could look back a long way . . . .Washington was pleasant in the Hoover administration. Ike was a major then, not much of a salary—only about $3,000 a year. And it seemed as if he would never get promoted. But the dollar went farther then. . . .He had an office on the edge of Doug MacArthur's chief of staff headquarters in the old State, War and Navy Building, that ugly old mausoleum which housed most of the War Department and all of the State Department then. Today her husband's White House staff has taken over the whole mausoleum . . . . How times have changed!. . . .And the State Department has three or four buildings to itself now, while the military services have the biggest office building in the world. . . . Those were happy days, uncomplicated days, even if Ike hadn't been promoted for years. . . .Then came the Philippines. MacArthur became commander of the new Philippine army and Ike went with him to help organize it. Glamorous days, different days, easy housekeeping days, languid tropic days.

Separation Of War

Then the rumblings of war. Mamie came home, all the wives came home. . . "Take good care of Ike," she had told Doug MacArthur, and MacArthur had taken her at her word. . . .Those were the first lonesome months of that prewar period when the White House knew, the Army knew, war was coming, but nobody knew when or where. . . .Ike came home from the Philippines. MacArthur sent him home. Something had happened between them, she never knew exactly what. . . .Ike went to Louisiana for the maneuvers, made a great record, began to get promoted—rapidly—right up the ladder. . . .Then to England, North Africa, Italy. . . .The war was on full blast. . . .Once he flew back with Harry Butcher on a surprise Christmas visit. It gave Mamie and Ruth Butcher the only thrill of the whole war. . . .But that was the only visit during the war. . . . Those were the lonesomest years of all, depressing years. . . .The Wardman Park Hotel where she and Ruth lived seemed bleak. . . . Gay with war widows and munitions peddlers to be sure, but so superficial, so dreary underneath . . . .Then came rumors, disturbing rumors, rumors that always crop up when soldiers are away from their womenfolk for years at a time. . . .All that, of course, is part of war. And like wars it passed . . . .It was lonesome, however, as lonesome as the room in the Walter Reed Hospital with the birds so happy in the trees outside.

Paris And Gettysburg

The years in Paris at SHAPE were happier. It was fun picking your own house instead of living in a hotel or a home picked for you by a superior officer at an Army post. . . .Then Ike decided to run for president. Things began to get lonesome again. . . .Came the campaign, the whistle-stop tour through Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska. She had enjoyed that, on the whole, partly because everyone had made her feel so necessary. She was part of it all, a very necessary part, politicians said. And when Ike told the crowd: "And now I want you to meet my Mamie," and she came out on the platform to be greeted by all those smiling, cheering friendly people—well it was worth all those years of loneliness. . . .For she was helping Ike . . . .She didn't know much about politics, but she could tell by the crowds and the politicians that she was a necessary, very necessary part of the political picture . . . .It was the first time in her long years of being an Army wife, since John was born, that she really felt necessary.

Life in the White House was different and interesting, very different. But sometimes just as lonesome as an Army post. . . .You don't see much of your husband when he's President of the United States. If it wasn't Congress and the cabinet that kept him busy, it was trips to this place and that . . . .Being First Lad was fun at times, but she still didn't have a home of her own. . . .That was why she had so much fun at Gettysburg, planning, buying furniture, landscaping, dreaming of the days when she could settle down once and for all in their home. . . .That was the one good thing about Ike's heart attack—they could now retire to Gettysburg. He wouldn't want to run again. . . .After Denver he came back to Gettysburg. But she couud see that to her husband Gettysburg seemed humdrum and unexciting after being the center of the world in Washington. . . . George Allen hinted that she had mothered Ike too much, worried over him too much at Gettysburg. But she knew the truth. The truth is that when a man has spent years in an active career it's difficult to stop. . . .And she wondered, looking out at the trees and that long vista of her life full of joy and full of loneliness, whether he would stop now. Or would the politicians once again demand that he go forward?

On The Line

By Bob Considine

WASHINGTON (INS)—The only contact between President Eisenhower and the world after his September heart attack and his operation last week was a hard-jawed, hard-working Harp named Jim Hagerty.

Hagerty's choice of words to depict the condition of the President and the state of the recovery was, in each case, an immensely hard one. He could utter no gray words; only clear-cut black and white ones. Billions of dollars in paper profits were at stake on the stock market. Vast corporations might hesitate to embark on this or that money-spending program because of Hagerty's translation into basic English of the medical obtusions of doctors in attendance. Unemployment was involved. The policies of foreign nations toward us were hanging in subtle balance. A political party that had not had a whiff of the White House since 1932 until Eisenhower made it 20 years later conld (and can, only hold its breath and wait with anxiety each new word from Hagerty's lips.

Tough And Great

I thought he was especially tough and great at about 5:30 Saturday morning when he barged down to the improvised press room that had been set up in Water Reed, two decks under the operating room. His champ was still out like a light, but the ordeal was over. The President had been saved from what have been a gangrenous attack that could have cost him his life. Jim had sweated out the story and the situation for 24 hours without closing an eye.

Jim's eyeballs were bleeding and he was punchy from the pressure and the loss of sleep. But he sat down at the long press table and in the most measured way told a hundred news-famished reporters the story. In the middle of it, he said something like, "It was a general anesthetic."

A reporter irreverently gagged, "What's General Anesthetic's first name?" Jim looked at him for a long moment. There were rings under the bags below the circles beneath his eyes.

"Can I go on?" he asked. On another occasion Jim might have sprung at his questioner's jugular.

When he was finished with the bulletin and had answered all the questions that followed, Jim repeated the performance for radio and then for the TV and newsreel cameras — including saying the same thing several times when newsreel cameramen had to change lenses for a close-up or ran out of film.

Then he raced home, took a shave and shower, put on fresh clothes and sped back to Walter Reed. What with the White House photographers dinner of Thursday night, I don't think Hagerty had three hours sleep in three days. Yet no man in the nation or in the world itself had to be more careful of what he said or did. A slip of the tongue, a fog of fatigue, even a worried glance would mean so much.

No Talk Of Politics

Jim says nobody is going to talk politics to the President. That's for sure. Nobody dared after the September heart attack. Many are of the opinion that Eisenhower would have retired from politics, except to campaign for a Republican successor, if he had not been hit with the heart attack. Now, nobody knows for sure what he will do. And that goes for the man who speaks for him—Hagerty.

As a practical politician, which he is in addition to being a first class reporter, Jim had to contend with a new element in the world—the doctors who pass judgments on Eisenhower's ability to run. They're a brave lot, those croakers. Eisenhower was still unconscious and with tubes in his nose the other day when, in answer to questions flung by reporters, the doctors spoke of his tremendous recuperation and mapped out that busy future which included attending to business this week, leaving the hospital next week, playing golf by mid-August and running again. When they aren't prescribing milk of magnesia for Eisenhower, they're running him for office—and it's Jim's rough job to translate what they say and keep them from taking over the work of the GOP nominating committee.

Council Delays Halting Aid To Miners Hospital

The people of Frostburg and the western part of this county have one year to decide what to do with Miners Hospital.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has received a letter from Dr. Carl N. Everstine notifying that the Legislative Council of the General Assembly will delay for a year the stopping of state maintenance for the hospital.

The report was adopted by the council after a hearing was conducted in Baltimore on May 9 at the arrangement of State Sen. Charles M. See.

The report stated that at the hearing it was developed that the Miners Hospital is the only general hospital in Maryland that is operated and maintained by state.

It was also evident, the report said, that any sudden withdrawal of state support would "cause havoc in the public health facilities of the community."

Accordingly, the report continued, the recommendation that the hospital be withdrawn from state support be held in the Legislative Council agenda until next year.

The council is notifying local government officials in Frostburg and Allegany County about this delaying action so that there can be some definite plan and time arranged for transferring the hospital from a state to a private operation.

State Sen. See observed here that the residents and officials of this county should start lining up their program to take over the hospital.

Truck Driver Fined $1,158 For Overload

The largest truck overload fine ever recorded in the area covered by Company C of West Virginia State Police was assessed on a Moorefield rig owner Monday in Romney.

For being 27,070 pounds over his licensed weight, Bair W. Hose was fined $1,158.50.

Arrested Monday at the weighing station at Shanks, W. Va., three miles east of Romney on Route 50, Hose was tried before Justice of the Peace William B. Rannells in the Hampshire County seat.

Sgt. R. E. Schnell, head of the Romney Detachment of State Police, reported that Hose's tractor-trailer had state license allowing a gross weight of 10,000 pounds.

This, the justice of the peace was informed, is about the weight of the tractor and its trailer.

When apprehended, the rig operated by an employe of Hose, Otto William Crites, also of Moorefield, had a gross weight of 37,070 pounds.

The trailer was loaded with leather and the driver was allowed to deliver his cargo.

The owner appealed the decision to Hampshire County Circuit Court.

Wheat Acreage Is Available

KEYSER—Farmers of the local rural areas are urged to apply for a 1957 wheat acreage allotment, according to James E. Taylor chairman of the Mineral County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, if they have land on which no wheat was seeded for grain for the years 1954, '55 and '56.

To be considered for an allotment on a farm which had no wheat seeded for grain for either of the three years, the farmer must file applications in County ASC office by July 30, this year. Application forms are available at the office.

Chairman Taylor also advises farmers who have wheat seeded for 1956 harvest, and who were not visited by a land crop reporter this spring, to report their wheat acreage to County ASC office so that allotment can be established for their farms.

All wheat growers, Taylor said, must obtain a wheat marketing card from the County ASC office in order to be eligible to dispose of wheat either by sale or trade.

Council Delays Halting Aid To Miners Hospital

The people of Frostburg and the western part of this county have one year to decide what to do with Miners Hospital.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has received a letter from Dr. Carl N. Everstine notifying that the Legislative Council of the General Assembly will delay for a year the stopping of state maintenance for the hospital.

The report was adopted by the council after a hearing was conducted in Baltimore on May 9 at the arrangement of State Sen. Charles M. See.

The report stated that at the hearing it was developed that the Miners Hospital is the only general hospital in Maryland that is operated and maintained by state.

It was also evident, the report said, that any sudden withdrawal of state support would "cause havoc in the public health facilities of the community."

Accordingly, the report continued, the recommendation that the hospital be withdrawn from state support be held in the Legislative Council agenda until next year.

The council is notifying local government officials in Frostburg and Allegany County about this delaying action so that there can be some definite plan and time arranged for transferring the hospital from a state to a private operation.

State Sen. See observed here that the residents and officials of this county should start lining up their program to take over the hospital.

Wheat Acreage Is Available

KEYSER—Farmers of the local rural areas are urged to apply for a 1957 wheat acreage allotment, according to James E. Taylor chairman of the Mineral County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, if they have land on which no wheat was seeded for grain for the years 1954, '55 and '56.

To be considered for an allotment on a farm which had no wheat seeded for grain for either of the three years, the farmer must file applications in County ASC office by July 30, this year. Application forms are available at the office.

Chairman Taylor also advises farmers who have wheat seeded for 1956 harvest, and who were not visited by a land crop reporter this spring, to report their wheat acreage to County ASC office so that allotment can be established for their farms.

All wheat growers, Taylor said, must obtain a wheat marketing card from the County ASC office in order to be eligible to dispose of wheat either by sale or trade.

Patterson, Moore Meet In September

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Archie Moore, world light heavyweight boxing champion, and Floyd Patterson, recent victor over Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, will meet in the New York Yankee Stadium ring late in September, their managers agreed informally today, in what is intended to be a world heavyweight championship bout.

James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said he would start work immediately asking the many boxing official organizations to recognize the bout as for the heavyweight crown which Rocky Marciano recently gave up.

No contracts were signed. In fact, most of the details of the bout still must be worked out.

The only thing accomplished at the three-way conference in Norris' Madison Square Garden office was the agreement that the two, generally regarded as the best of the active heavyweights, would meet.

Patterson suffered a broken bone in his right hand last Friday night while outpointing Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, said his fighter's availability would be determined by the doctors.

X-rays of the break will be studied tomorrow and Patterson reports to the medics for another examination on Thursday. It was pointed out that Patterson would have to do no boxing in hhs training grind until about Sept. 1 and it is expected that the break will have been healed by Aug. 1.

The Yankees will be on one of their longest road trips during September, leaving the huge ball park after the game of Sunday, Sept. 9 and not returning until Sept. 28, a Friday.

Fights of this caliber usually are held on a Thursday, with Sept. 20 looming as the probable date for the Moore-Patterson go.

Countermand Is Out Of $100,000 Added Race At New York

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Preakness winner Fabius galloped around the course today and Career Boy had a final serious workout as the probable field for the 88th running of the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes was trimmed to eight with the scratching of Countermand.

This was the main development as the hour approached for the final tier of the triple crown test for 3-year-olds, although Trainer Jimmy Jones of the Calumet Farm straightened out his jockey troubles. Willie Hartack, regular rider, was set down for 10 days effective today, and Jones said Paul Bailey would be aboard the son of Citation.

The Florida-bred Needles, who captured the Kentucky Derby, defitely is the horse to beat, although he finished second to Fabius in the Preakness. Needles is property of D & H Stable.

A field of around five had been expected for the mile and one half grind. However, Fabius ran into a snag after finishing second in the Derby, winning the Preakness and the Jersey Stakes. Last Saturday he was whipped six big lengths by the Christiana Stable's Ricci Tavi in the Leonard Richards at Delaware Park.

This startling development brought in several horses to the Belmont who had not otherwise figured. It was decided not to start the Brandywine Stable's Countermand, fourth in the Leonard Richards.

Others who figure to go include C. V. Whitney's Jazz Age, a stablemate of Career Boy, Mrs. C. B. Fischbach's Frosty Mr., Laudy Lawrence's Beau Diable, and Fortune P. Ryan's Charlevoix. Jazz Age won the Peter Pan, while Frosty Mr. copped the Chesapeake Stakes and was nosed out of second money by Fabius in the Leonard Richards.

Career Boy stepped a mile and one quarter this morning in 2:05 flat. Needles, who dislikes morning training, surprised on Sunday with a 2:33 for the full mile and one half route of the big race. Jazz Age went the same distance yesterday in 2:34. Ricci Tavi and Frosty Mr. are due to work tomorrow morning.

Cresaptown Eagles Trim Maroons, 4-0; DAV Is Winner, 7-6

The Cresaptown Eagles shut out the LaVale Maroons, 4-0, and the Cumberland D. A. V. No. 2 rallied for four runs in the final inning to nose out Ellerslie, 7-6, in Pen-Mar Little League games played yesterday.

Roger Flanagan, who supplanted Ferrone in the second inning, went on to post his fourth straight win of the season for the Eagles. He fanned eight. Larry Snyder, LaVale hurler, whiffed ten, and gave up six hits.

Stouffer's home run with two aboard in the fourth inning decided the contest.

Three hits coupled with a wild throw produced four runs in the 6th inning and gave the D. A. V. the decision over Ellerslie.

Ronnie Bird collected a double and single for the winners. Johnny Shreve of Cresaptown and Burkey of Ellerslie slammed triples.

Cubs Paddle Giants, 8-5

Post 9th Victory In Last 12 Games

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs rolled to their ninth victory in the last 12 games today by handing the New York Giants an 8-5 paddling as ex-Giant Monte Irvin drove in four runs.

The victory, the Chicagoans' first over New York in five games this season, lifted the Cubs into sixth place ahead of the derailed Giants.

Irvin blasted his sixth homer and a double to help the Cubs overcome a 3-0 New York lead.

The Giants scored two runs on four straight singles in the first, and got a third on Foster Castleman's fifth homer off starter Paul Minner in the fourth.

Singles by Dee Fondy and Walt Moryn preceded Irvin's homer off loser Allan Worthington in the fourth. These were the first hits off Worthington, and Irvin's first hit in 14 times at bat against the Giants this season.

Irvin's double also figured in the Cubs' second three run romp in the sixth. Chicago's final two runs in the seventh, off Hoyt Wilhelm, both were unearned.

Turk Lown finished up for Minner, who recorded his second victory.

Cresaptown Eagles Trim Maroons, 4-0; DAV Is Winner, 7-6

The Cresaptown Eagles shut out the LaVale Maroons, 4-0, and the Cumberland D. A. V. No. 2 rallied for four runs in the final inning to nose out Ellerslie, 7-6, in Pen-Mar Little League games played yesterday.

Roger Flanagan, who supplanted Ferrone in the second inning, went on to post his fourth straight win of the season for the Eagles. He fanned eight. Larry Snyder, LaVale hurler, whiffed ten, and gave up six hits.

Stouffer's home run with two aboard in the fourth inning decided the contest.

Three hits coupled with a wild throw produced four runs in the 6th inning and gave the D. A. V. the decision over Ellerslie.

Shows Families How To Have More Money Each Month

James Adams

Everyone would like more money every month.

The local manager of Aetna Finance Co. now offers families here a "fresh start" plan that provides $20 to $1500 cash to consolidate bills with one payment a month.

"Usually it means less to pay," he said, "and the family then has more money each month for other needs."

Payments often can be reduced as much as 50%. Those interested are invited to call Aetna Finance Co., 48 N. Centre St., Dial PA 4-5800.

Navy And Terps Sign Grid Pact

ANNAPOLIS, June 12 (AP)—Navy and Maryland, football powers of the East, will resume their gridiron rivalry with a two-game series starting in 1958.

Paving the way for the scheduling apparently was Navy's differences with Georgia Tech over segregation.

The Navy said only that Navy and Georgia Tech had cancelled their 1958-59 games by "mutual agreement." There was no elaboration. It was believed that Georgia's attitude toward segregated football audiences motivated the cancellation.

The Naval Academy admits Negro midshipmen and does not practice segregation.

Navy and Maryland, only 30 miles apart, haven't played each other since 1952.

The announcement of the series, to be played in Baltimore's Memorial stadium Nov. 8, 1958 and Nov. 7, 1959 was made jointly by officials of the two schools.

Feathers To Clash

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) — Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn, a leading contender for Sandy Saddler's featherweight crown, meets New York's Ike Chesnut in a 10-rounder here June 27, promoter Goldie Ahearn announced today.

The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC, 9 p.m. EST) from Capitol Arena.

Davis Cup Matches Set For Rye Courts

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP) — The final round of the American Zone Davis Cup matches will be played on the grass courts of the Westchester Country Club at Rye, N.Y., on Aug. 3-5, it was announced today by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn.

The Canadian - U.S. semifinal round matches will be played on the Victoria, British Columbia, tennis and badminton courts July 26-29 while the Mexico-Brazil meeting is scheduled for Mexico City, July 6-8.

Rose Bowl Hero Injured In Dive

EAST LANSING, Mich., June 12 (AP)—Dave Kaiser, the Michigan State end who kicked the winning field goal in the Rose Bowl game, is in University Hospital with a severe neck strain suffered in a weekend diving accident.

Dr. James Feurig, team physician, said Kaiser is in traction and will be hospitalized for at least 10 days, but probably will be fully recovered by fall.

University officials said Kaiser strained his neck when he dove into shallow water at nearby Round Lake Saturday. He was hospitalized the same day.

Kaiser kicked the field goal during the Rose Bowl game that gave the Spartans a 17-14 victory over UCLA.

"Red" Brown Heads Athletic Directors

Mac Pitt of Richmond was chosen vice president and Tom Scott of Davidson, secretary-treasurer.

The athletic directors decided to recommend that by 1958 conference teams must play at least four intra-league games to qualify for the conference football title. By 1959, the minimum would be upped to five contests in the 10-school loop.

Navy And Terps Sign Grid Pact

ANNAPOLIS, June 12 (AP)—Navy and Maryland, football powers of the East, will resume their gridiron rivalry with a two-game series starting in 1958.

Paving the way for the scheduling apparently was Navy's differences with Georgia Tech over segregation.

The Navy said only that Navy and Georgia Tech had cancelled their 1958-59 games by "mutual agreement." There was no elaboration. It was believed that Georgia's attitude toward segregated football audiences motivated the cancellation.

The Naval Academy admits Negro midshipmen and does not practice segregation.

Navy and Maryland, only 30 miles apart, haven't played each other since 1952.

The announcement of the series, to be played in Baltimore's Memorial stadium Nov. 8, 1958 and Nov. 7, 1959 was made jointly by officials of the two schools.

Feathers To Clash

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) — Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn, a leading contender for Sandy Saddler's featherweight crown, meets New York's Ike Chesnut in a 10-rounder here June 27, promoter Goldie Ahearn announced today.

The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC, 9 p.m. EST) from Capitol Arena.

Davis Cup Matches Set For Rye Courts

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP) — The final round of the American Zone Davis Cup matches will be played on the grass courts of the Westchester Country Club at Rye, N.Y., on Aug. 3-5, it was announced today by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn.

The Canadian-U.S. semifinal round matches will be played on the Victoria, British Columbia, tennis and badminton courts July 26-29 while the Mexico-Brazil meeting is scheduled for Mexico City, July 6-8.

Rose Bowl Hero Injured In Dive

EAST LANSING, Mich., June 12 (AP)—Dave Kaiser, the Michigan State end who kicked the winning field goal in the Rose Bowl game, is in University Hospital with a severe neck strain suffered in a weekend diving accident.

Dr. James Feurig, team physician, said Kaiser is in traction and will be hospitalized for at least 10 days, but probably will be fully recovered by fall.

University officials said Kaiser strained his neck when he dove into shallow water at nearby Round Lake Saturday. He was hospitalized the same day.

Kaiser kicked the field goal during the Rose Bowl game that gave the Spartans a 17-14 victory over UCLA.

"Red" Brown Heads Athletic Directors

Mac Pitt of Richmond was chosen vice president and Tom Scott of Davidson, secretary-treasurer.

The athletic directors decided to recommend that by 1958 conference teams must play at least four intra-league games to qualify for the conference football title. By 1959, the minimum would be upped to five contests in the 10-school loop.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 12 (INS)—The very first appearance Rhonda Fleming has made since she and Dr. Lew Morrill parted company was at the Spike Jones gay opening at the Moulin Rouge. Her escort was Alan Chase, a non-professional, good looking, man-about-town, whom she has known for a long time.

Rhonda says she is playing the movie star in "The Buster Keaton Story" opposite Donald O'Connor. She'll be seen as a real oldtime glamor gal with the leopard skin rug, beaded eyelashes and all the trimmings.

This is Rhonda's second for Paramount. Her last was "Gunfight at the OK Corral" with Kirk Douglas.

When "What Makes Sammy Run?", the Budd Schulberg novel about Hollywood, reaches the screen it will have a parade of academy winning stars. This, Freddie Finklehoffe, the producer, told me at the Judy Garland dinner.

Said Freddie: "I've started negotiations for Ernie Borgnine and Jack Lemmon, last year's Oscar winners. I've also talked with Mercedes McCambridge, who won an award for 'All the King's Men,' and to Paul Lucas, who won honors for 'Watch on the Rhine.'" Michael Curtis has been signed to direct.

In Ruth Waterbury's travels in Europe she visited the set of "Notre Dame of Paris" in Paris and says she talked with both Gina Lollobrigida and Anthony Quinn. Gina told Ruth that she and her husband, Dr. Skovic, own 50 per cent of "The Most Beautiful Woman in the World," which Howard Hughes has bought for U.S. distribution, and that they have earned enough from this one picture to be financially secure for life.

When asked if Sophia Loren worried her, Gina replied with a smile, "Oh, let her have all the good publicity. All I want is all the good parts!"

A very wise attorney gave Eleanor Powell and Glenn Ford some good advice when they talked with him. There had been a little trouble, a misunderstanding, shall we say, between the Fords, but now it looks as if their troubles have been bridged over, which is as it should be.

They have been married for many years, have a wonderful son, and it would be too bad if two such nice people decided to break up. Once, a long time ago, there was talk of a separation, but of late I thought they seemed closer than ever.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Producer Bob Fellows and Dona Stewart tie the knot next Monday — the date favored by astrology.

Mike Rennie's former girl friend, Lisa Davis, is now dating Mel Torme when she isn't cramming for her American citizenship examinations.

A young man the town can be proud of is Harry Joe Brown, Jr., son of Harry Joe Brown and Mrs. Holly Morse (Sally Eilers). The young man, who graduated from Yale was made a Phi Beta Kappa and awarded the McLaughlin Allison arts and letters scholarship which gives him a year of study at Oxford. Good work, Harry Joe, Jr.

Recuperating at home from an illness in the hospital, Doris Day is busy studying architects' plans for a building she and Marty Melcher will start in the fall.

Glimpsed at Perino's were Veronique and Gregory Peck dining with his MCA representative George Chase and Mrs. George.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Carefree Feet

Tired and weak feet, arches, or ankles show up in more than your walk. From the pain that these conditions generate, the face is pinched along with the feet.

Rather than give you suggestions for treatment of tired feet, we would like to help you avoid tired feet altogether. In other words, strengthen your pedal extremities through exercises. The more supple and strong your feet are and the more blood that circulates through them, the less tired you will feel after hours of work, shopping, or sightseeing. Can't you always tell when a woman's feet hurt?

For accelerating correction, kick off your shoes and follow these simple exercises. You won't feel like collapsing at the end of the day.

1. To strengthen the arches, walk on the outside of the feet with the toes pointed straight to the front. This is a good exercise for those whose feet are apt to appear flat.

2. Sit down. Try to pick up marbles, one at a time, from the floor. Alternate and pick them up with other foot.

3. Sit on floor with legs straight out and together. Turn feet inward toward each other and try to make the soles touch. Tighten all the muscles of the toes and feet and hold for a slow count of five. Repeat ten times, rest, repeat again.

4. Stand with feet parallel. Rise up on toes, then slowly bring feet down. Repeat and increase number of times you do this each day.

Tomorrow—Indispensable habit.

Mrs. Ina L. Suesse, 434 Race Street, was named executrix of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Annie May Lepley, who died April 21.

The will of Mrs. Ida D. Whorton, who was 80 and lived east of Flintstone at the time of her death May 13, left her estate equally to eight children. Mrs. Grace Peckham, Flintstone, a daughter, qualified as executrix of the estate. Sharing it are Mrs. Peckham, Robert Whorton, Roy Whorton, Ralph Whorton, Mattie Fletcher, Lynn Whorton, Floyd Whorton and Jess Whorton. The will was dated September 20, 1944.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, England, June 12 (AP)—Police are looking for a vandal with a strange hate. They found monuments in Linthorpe cemetery smashed or pushed over. They said the strangest thing was this: only monuments molested were carved figures of angels.

Strange Guests

KAMPALA, Uganda, June 12 (AP)—The safari (hunting) lodge in Murchison National Park has the craziest uninvited guests sometimes. One was an elephant. It ate up a grass sunshade over a window. Another was a rhinoceros. It called at the front door, kept the manager penned up inside for three hours.

Rainier Villa For Sale

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, June 12 (AP)—Prince Rainier's favorite villa at St.Jean Cap Ferrat is up for sale. Intimates suspect the reason is Princess Grace doesn't like it. Rainier favored the villa over his palace during the years he courted French film actress Giselle Pascal.

New York 'Union' State

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—The National Bureau of Economic Research says New York has more union members than any other state. The state, with its 2,051,800 union members, ranks only 15th in percentage of organized industrial and white collar workers, however.

Police Announce Bicycle Permit Plan

The schedule for obtaining permits to operate bicycles within the city limits of Cumberland was announced yesterday by Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn.

Chief Flynn said permits will be issued on June 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 at Police Headquarters from 10 a. m. until noon and from 1 p. m. until 4 p. m.

Flynn pointed out that all persons riding bicycles in the city must have a permit by July 1.

He added that permits will not be granted unless the bicycles are equipped with the proper warning device and brakes in first-class condition.

Siren whistles are not allowed, and for night riding the bike owners must have proper lights mounted on the front and rear of the bicycles, Flynn said.

Flynn has asked bike owners to see that the serial number on the bike is not covered with paint.

Japan, with 88 million people, has only 15 million acres of arable land.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I don't see what good all that studying does — you never pick the winners, anyway."

Television And Radio

One Man Show

Victor Borge, who will do virtually a one-man show for CBS-TV Thursday (10 a. m., EDT), has had more than his share of disasters on television. "If the people in the living room only knew what went on around and behind the performer," he said the other day.

On his first TV performance, Borge was asked to play "Clair de Lune." The producer superimposed on his piano a shot of a girl in a bathing suit swimming around in a huge glass bowl—"for what reason I don't know unless he didn't understand French and thought 'Clair de Lune' meant Claire in the Bowl or something.

"I sat down at the piano and started to tell jokes but nobody laughed because there was an army of stagehands and the girl's family and some other people watching the girl climb a ladder to get into the bowl. On the home screen was just me. How could I explain that nobody was laughing because they were watching the girl in the bowl? When I finished 'Clair de Lune,' the house came down. I think the studio audience was just terribly pleased the girl didn't drown.

"Never have I been on a show without something happening. In Chicago I appeared with an ice show in a big arena. The producer asked me to do phonetic punctuation, my best number. I was off in a corner of the arena and had to face the cameras with my back to the audience. Just as I was about to go on, my wife told me that the public address system wasn't working. I went on and did my best routine and nobody laughed. Nobody could hear it.

"On 'Omnibus' I worked without an audience and I used something that had to build for 20 minutes. I had just reached the climax when the stage director gave me the signal to get off. I had to get off without reaching the point I had been building up. The show that day ran three and a half minutes short. Somebody had been looking at their watch wrong."

Borge earnestly hopes nothing of this sort will occur Thursday night. For 54 minutes he will be on stage virtually alone. The only other thing you will see is a glimpse of the orchestra which Borge will conduct during a 10-minute medley of Tschaikowsky. Borge is eager for this bit to be a success because he feels good music has been seriously neglected on TV. The public, TV producers seem to feel, hasn't progressed much beyond "The Warsaw Concerto," a need that Liberace has filled for years to come. However, Borge thinks the people will eat up Tschaikowsky because so many popular songs have been stolen from his music.

Most of the rest of the time Borge will be doing a monologue. Fifty-four minutes seem like a long time—but not to Borge, whose two and a half hour one-man show "Comedy In Music" ran for two years on Broadway, an all-time one-man record. "Comedy In Music" is still packing them in on the road where he has played to as many as 60 to 80 thousand people a week. Consequently, Borge hardly needs television either to eat or to perform.

He's anxious to find out whether a full hour of him on TV will increase his popularity on the road or diminish it. Experience has shown that exposure on TV almost always increases an entertainer's draw. Borge hopes to do only two or three shows a year on television. "I hope to live a long time on this medium and I'd like to make my shows events that people look forward to." He also hopes that his experiment with straight music will sit well with the public because he'd love to do more of it.

"I hope it will be the fastest hour on television—and if all goes well, it should be."

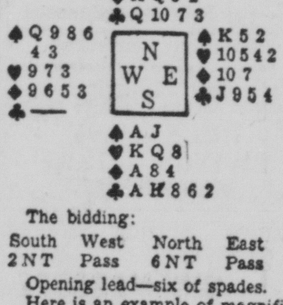
Daily Bridge Lesson

by B. Jay Becker

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 N T	Pass	6 N T	Pass

Here is an example of magnificent care exercised by declarer in a slam contract. It illustrates how dividends accrue from well-reasoned play.

South captured East's king of spades with the ace. Declarer counted eleven sure winners, and had no prospect of additional tricks except in clubs. If the opponents' four clubs were divided 2-2 or 3-1, the hand was a cinch to produce thirteen tricks. South's problem therefore was to deal with the play on the basis that one of the defenders had all four clubs.

If it was assumed that West had the four clubs, playing the ace of clubs would make it easy to pick up his jack of clubs, since East would show out of the suit. But the same play would fail if East had the four clubs, because East would have a guaranteed club trick. East's clubs, if he had four, could be trapped only if the queen of clubs was the first honor led. It was South's job to learn which, if either, opponent had four clubs so that he would know whether to play the ace or the queen first. This he proceeded to do in the following manner:

Four rounds of diamonds were taken, South discarding a spade, as he noted that West followed to four diamonds. South had already assumed from the opening lead that West's spade holding was four or more. Next South led a low heart to the king and a small one to the jack. The detective work was finished. All the information South needed was already at hand.

West could no longer have the hypothetical four clubs. West had started with four diamonds, at least four spades, and had played two hearts. There was not room in his hand for a four card club suit. Therefore all measures had to be directed at East. The queen of clubs was led. West showed out. The ten of clubs, covered by the jack, was won by South. A heart to the ace was followed by another club. End of ball game.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Victor Borge, who will do virtually a one-man show for CBS-TV Thursday (10 a. m., EDT), has had more than his share of disasters on television. "If the people in the living room only knew what went on around and behind the performer," he said the other day.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by B. Jay Becker

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	6 NT	Pass

Opening lead—six of spades.

Here is an example of magnificent care exercised by declarer in a slam contract. It illustrates how dividends accrue from well-reasoned play.

South captured East's king of spades with the ace. Declarer counted eleven sure winners, and had no prospect of additional tricks except in clubs. If the opponents' four clubs were divided 2-2 or 3-1, the hand was a cinch to produce thirteen tricks. South's problem therefore was to deal with the play on the basis that one of the defenders had all four clubs.

If it was assumed that West had the four clubs, playing the ace of clubs would make it easy to pick up his jack of clubs, since East would show out of the suit. But the same play would fail if East had the four clubs, because East would have a guaranteed club trick. East's clubs, if he had four, could be trapped only if the queen of clubs was the first honor led. It was South's job to learn which, if either, opponent had four clubs so that he would know whether to play the ace or the queen first. This he proceeded to do in the following manner:

Four rounds of diamonds were taken, South discarding a spade, as he noted that West followed to four diamonds. South had already assumed from the opening lead that West's spade holding was four or more. Next South led a low heart to the king and a small one to the jack. The detective work was finished. All the information South needed was already at hand.

West could no longer have the hypothetical four clubs. West had started with four diamonds, at least four spades, and had played two hearts. There was not room in his hand for a four card club suit. Therefore all measures had to be directed at East. The queen of clubs was led. West showed out. The ten of clubs, covered by the jack, was won by South. A heart to the ace was followed by another club. End of ball game.

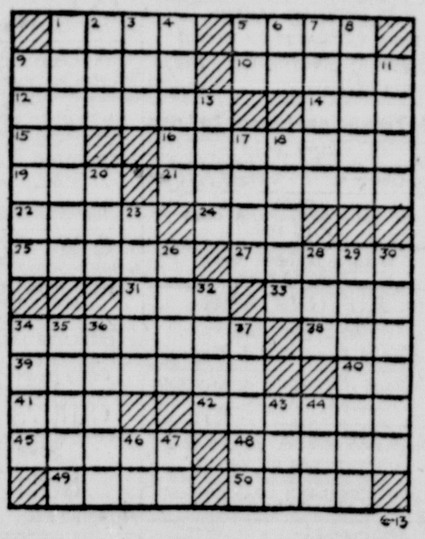
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

McGeady Spent More Than Pay, FBI Man Says

Former Teller's Expenses Listed

Figures to indicate that Thomas Owen McGeady, 30-year-old former teller at the First National Bank, spent more than he earned last year were submitted in U. S. District Court at the Allegany County Court House yesterday by Carl Joseph Sorensen, of Baltimore, special agent for the FBI.

Sorensen was called as one of the government witnesses in the trial of McGeady, who is accused of embezzling $29,362.13 from the bank.

Figures submitted by Sorensen were furnished by McGeady, he said, when he questioned McGeady last August 19 and 20 and October 28. Sorensen was in charge of the investigation of the bank shortage.

In the course of his questioning of Sorensen, John H. Somerville, assistant U. S. District Attorney, asked whether McGeady had told him anything about visiting night clubs in the Cumberland area between May and July 1955.

Dated Woman Teller

Sorensen said McGeady told him he had dated Mrs. Virginia Vandegrift, who also was a teller at the bank, about once a week between May and July 1955. He met the woman teller at various night clubs about once a week between May and July and spent about $4 each date, Sorensen said McGeady told him.

Between January 1 and August 31, 1955, when his employment at the bank ended, McGeady's gross salary was $2,393.61, of which $328.97 was withheld. That left his net pay for eight months $2,064.64, Sorensen explained.

The FBI agent then listed various expenditures which McGeady had given him in his statement. He carried two insurance policies on his son, one of which cost $49 a year and the other $18 every quarter. Another policy on his wife cost $23.15 a quarter.

Bet On Bowling, Races

McGeady told the FBI man that he bowled each Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday during the bowling season and spent between $10 and $15 a week in that activity. Sorensen explained that McGeady also stated that he bet on his bowling ability, either $1 per single game or $5 a three-game set. He also admitted playing five and 10-cent poker once a week.

Sorensen was informed that McGeady was about $200 ahead on his betting activities for 1952, 1953 and 1954 but was about $10 behind for 1955.

Other expenditures cited by the FBI man in his lengthy testimony on the stand were $16 a week for drinks at bars and clubs, $37.50 a month for rent, $3.25 for gas, $7 a month for electricity, $4.09 a month for phone, $120 a season for coal, $50 a month for food, $5 a week for bread and milk, $20 a month on a furniture bill, $20 every two or three months in a men's clothing store, $18.50 a month on a television set and $41 a month in car payments.

Sorensen also said the former teller acknowledged having gone to the horse races at Fairgo last season several times to bet between $2 and $10 a race.

Spent More Than Salary

"When I called attention to the fact that his figures showed his expenditures were in excess of his earnings, McGeady told me he must have made more in his betting on his bowling, or had received additional funds from his family," Sorensen stated.

Under cross examination by William C. Walsh, one of the three defense attorneys, Sorensen said McGeady informed him he was one of the better bowlers in the Cumberland area, with an average of about 170 for rubber band duck pins and could have won considerable money betting on his ability as a bowler.

Before leaving the stand, Sorensen was asked a number of questions by U. S. District Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, who is presiding at this first federal jury trial in Cumberland since 1937.

Sorensen informed Judge Watkins that reproductions of only five of the 16 checks cashed to the account of W. E. White, 415 Magruder Street, were found among the bank's microfilm. All five checks were made payable to the First National Bank and all of the information except the signature was placed on the check with typewriter.

Handwriting Unidentified

Samples of all of the typewriters and signatures of all of the bank tellers, White and Miss Clementine Lewis, White's secretary, were sent to the FBI laboratory. However, the laboratory was unable to establish the identity of the handwriting on the checks.

A Murley's Branch Road resident died last night as a result of injuries sustained when he was pinned under a tractor while working on a farm in that section.

The victim was identified as Marshall Gordon Wilson Jr., about 44. Full details of the accident were not available late last night. Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police at LaVale, is investigating.

Flintstone volunteer firemen got a call about 9:50 p.m. and went to the scene in their ambulance. Wilson, an employe of the George Construction Company, was president of the Parent Teacher Association of Flintstone School.

Freezing Weather Shows Effect On W. Va. Peach Crop

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 12 (AP)—A peach crop 250,000 bushels short of that in 1955 was forecast for West Virginia today by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

A weekly crop summary observed that prospects for a large fruit output were "sharply reduced" by freezing weather in May.

"A good many blocks of apple trees," the service said, "will have less than a third of a crop, while others may produce something over 50 per cent." The summary added:

"Peaches were not damaged as much as apples, but prospective production was curtailed. The June 1 forecast placed the crop at 551,000 bushels, compared to 800,000 bushels produced in 1955.

"The first forecast of the apple crop will be published July 10."

PPG Manager Outlines Work At New Plant

Businessmen Hear R. M. Hainsfurther

Eighty-two members and their guests at a meeting of the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association last night in Grace Community Hall, got a first-hand report on the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's local Works No. 7, nearing completion.

Robert M. Hainsfurther, plant manager, who was a guest speaker of the association last September, made a progress report, and assisted by William P. Lawrence, director of industrial relations, showed a number of pictures of the plant construction.

The plant manager said progress on construction is about on time, and the company hopes to begin producing rough glass about the middle of August.

He explained that this rough glass will be shipped to other existing plants for polishing and final finish. This timetable, he explained, is essential, because in these plants repair and renewal of equipment for making rough glass is long overdue. Thus, the plant here can get into initial production early, the rough glass can be shipped to plants for finishing, repairs can be made to old equipment in other plants, and production will continue.

Will Finish Glass

As work on the finishing and polishing buildings and machinery is completed here, the local plant will turn out the completed product, he explained.

At the present time there are over 1,000 people employed at the site on construction, machinery installation and other duties.

As production begins, only a fraction of needed personnel will be employed, he outlined, but as production reaches its ultimate, this number will increase.

Hainsfurther said the company cannot possibly employ everyone seeking jobs and there are bound to be disappointments.

He then explained the procedure being followed by the company in selecting employes.

At the present time, he explained, the company is building its management team and selecting supervisors and others for key jobs.

Fifty-two per cent of this supervisory or management team is to be hired locally and 48 per cent will come from existing plants.

Tests of various kinds are given applicants, and as these tests progress, it is possible, he said, to select those most desirable as supervisors. After a series of tests and checking of references, applicants are sent for a physical examination. If they complete this satisfactorily, they are being hired.

Supervisors Hired

The first group has already been employed and this week started a rigid training program. The program requires 17 days of intensive basic training and the entire training plan is divided into five phases. The last of these is on-the-job training in actual production work.

These supervisors will be responsible for training the hourly-paid workers who will eventually be hired to do the numerous jobs the work entails. Each department supervisor will train his own people. These people will be selected, also, after a series of tests and a program of basic indoctrination.

He explained a number of photographs which were projected on a large screen, outlining in detail the progress that has been made and the work accomplished in only a few months.

Nelson W. Russler, president, introduced James Weber, vice president, who introduced the two official guests. Russler also introduced a number of other guests including, city and county officials.

Corsages were presented to Miss Nancy Andrews of Mapleside who was this year's Fun Fair Queen; to Miss Dorothy Reynolds and Miss Antoinette Cifala, runners-up in the contest. Miss Andrews, for her work in the contest, also was presented two pieces of luggage.

Garrett Contract Declared Null In Court Action

An injunction preventing two of Garrett County's Commissioners from continuing a contract providing shale and gravel for county road work was issued yesterday by Chief Judge George Henderson in an equity suit heard in the Circuit Court of that county.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport attorney, filed a petition for an injunction against Aubrey C. Brenneman and Harvey Swartzentruber. He represented the third commissioner, Irvin Roth.

In testimony yesterday Whitworth gave evidence that Brenneman is part owner of A. C. Brenneman and Son, contractor for drilling holes in the Bishop quarry in Garrett County at a rate of $2 a foot.

Rock and shale for the county road work was being obtained in the drilling contract, Whitworth pointed out.

It was also brought out in the testimony that Brenneman and his son, John M. Brenneman, had filed a 1955-56 partnership income tax report.

About $30,000 is involved in the contract, Whitworth said. At least $16,000 of the work has been completed.

In the opinion, Judge Henderson did not stipulate whether or not the money would be paid by the county, and declared the contract void.

The trial lasted from 9:30 a. m. until about 3:30 p. m. Representing the defendants were Attorneys Walter W. Dawson and W. Dwight Stover of Oakland and William A. Gunter, local attorney.

Local Store Wins Sales Contest Award

The Cumberland branch store of Montgomery Ward has been declared one of the winners in a nation-wide Ward sales contest, B. F. Sims, local manager, announced yesterday. All of the company's 566 retail stores participated in the contest during the month of April.

The prize money will be used for a party for store personnel, Sims said, and also will be divided among the salespeople who exceeded their quotas by the largest precentage during the contest.

Ralph R. Peters, FHA state director, says that applications for these plans may be made immediately at any of 13 FHA county offices in Maryland and Delaware. Regulations for processing the loans have been distributed to all field offices.

The loans may be made for construction and repair of farm houses and other farm buildings, including farmstead water supplies. Interest on the loans will be four per cent per year on the unpaid principal. Repayment will be scheduled over periods up to 33 years. The loans will be secured by a mortgage on the borrower's farm.

Applications will be expected to obtain building plans and specifications for the improvements to be financed with the farm housing loan. The FHA will review the plans and inspect the construction as it progresses to assist the borrower in obtaining construction that meets generally accepted standards of soundness.

McGeady Spent More Than Pay, FBI Man Says

Former Teller's Expenses Listed

Figures to indicate that Thomas Owen McGeady, 30-year-old former teller at the First National Bank, spent more than he earned last year were submitted in U. S. District Court at the Allegany County Court House yesterday by Carl Joseph Sorensen, of Baltimore, special agent for the FBI.

Sorensen was called as one of the government witnesses in the trial of McGeady, who is accused of embezzling $29,362.13 from the bank.

Figures submitted by Sorensen were furnished by McGeady, he said, when he questioned McGeady last August 19 and 20 and October 28. Sorensen was in charge of the investigation of the bank shortage.

In the course of his questioning of Sorensen, John H. Somerville, assistant U. S. District Attorney, asked whether McGeady had told him anything about visiting night clubs in the Cumberland area between May and July 1955.

Dated Woman Teller

Sorensen said McGeady told him he had dated Mrs. Virginia Vandegrift, who also was a teller at the bank, about once a week between May and July 1955. He met the woman teller at various night clubs about once a week between May and July and spent about $4 each date, Sorensen said McGeady told him.

Between January 1 and August 31, 1955, when his employment at the bank ended, McGeady's gross salary was $2,393.61, of which $328.97 was withheld. That left his net pay for eight months $2,064.64, Sorensen explained.

The FBI agent then listed various expenditures which McGeady had given him in his statement. He carried two insurance policies on his son, one of which cost $49 a year and the other $18 every quarter. Another policy on his wife cost $23.15 a quarter.

Bet On Bowling, Races

McGeady told the FBI man that he bowled each Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday during the bowling season and spent between $10 and $15 a week in that activity. Sorensen explained that McGeady also stated that he bet on his bowling ability, either $1 per single game or $5 a three-game set. He also admitted playing five and 10-cent poker once a week.

Sorensen was informed that McGeady was about $200 ahead on his betting activities for 1952, 1953 and 1954 but was about $10 behind for 1955.

Other expenditures cited by the FBI man in his lengthy testimony on the stand were $16 a week for drinks at bars and clubs, $37.50 a month for rent, $3.25 for gas, $7 a month for electricity, $4.09 a month for phone, $120 a season for coal, $50 a month for food, $5 a week for bread and milk, $20 a month on a furniture bill, $20 every two or three months in a men's clothing store, $18.50 a month on a television set and $41 a month in car payments.

Sorensen also said the former teller acknowledged having gone to the horse races at Fairgo last season several times to bet between $2 and $10 a race.

Spent More Than Salary

"When I called attention to the fact that his figures showed his expenditures were in excess of his earnings, McGeady told me he must have made more in his betting on his bowling, or had received additional funds from his family," Sorensen stated.

Under cross examination by William C. Walsh, one of the three defense attorneys, Sorensen said McGeady informed him he was one of the better bowlers in the Cumberland area, with an average of about 170 for rubber band duck pins and could have won considerable money betting on his ability as a bowler.

Before leaving the stand, Sorensen was asked a number of questions by U. S. District Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, who is presiding at this first federal jury trial in Cumberland since 1937.

Sorensen informed Judge Watkins that reproductions of only five of the 16 checks cashed to the account of W. E. White, 415 Magruder Street, were found among the bank's microfilm. All five checks were made payable to the First National Bank and all of the information except the signature was placed on the check with typewriter.

Handwriting Unidentified

Samples of all of the typewriters and signatures of all of the bank tellers, White and Miss Clementine Lewis, White's secretary, were sent to the FBI laboratory. However, the laboratory was unable to establish the identity of the handwriting on the checks.

Freezing Weather Shows Effect On W. Va. Peach Crop

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 12 (AP)—A peach crop 250,000 bushels short of that in 1955 was forecast for West Virginia today by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

A weekly crop summary observed that prospects for a large fruit output were "sharply reduced" by freezing weather in May.

"A good many blocks of apple trees," the service said, "will have less than a third of a crop, while others may produce something over 50 per cent." The summary added:

"Peaches were not damaged as much as apples, but prospective production was curtailed. The June 1 forecast placed the crop at 551,000 bushels, compared to 800,000 bushels produced in 1955.

"The first forecast of the apple crop will be published July 10."

PPG Manager Outlines Work At New Plant

Businessmen Hear R. M. Hainsfurther

Eighty-two members and their guests at a meeting of the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association last night in Grace Community Hall, got a first-hand report on the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's local Works No. 7, nearing completion.

Robert M. Hainsfurther, plant manager, who was a guest speaker of the association last September, made a progress report, and assisted by William P. Lawrence, director of industrial relations, showed a number of pictures of the plant construction.

The plant manager said progress on construction is about on time, and the company hopes to begin producing rough glass about the middle of August.

He explained that this rough glass will be shipped to other existing plants for polishing and final finish. This timetable, he explained, is essential, because in these plants repair and renewal of equipment for making rough glass is long overdue. Thus, the plant here can get into initial production early, the rough glass can be shipped to plants for finishing, repairs can be made to old equipment in other plants, and production will continue.

Will Finish Glass

As work on the finishing and polishing buildings and machinery is completed here, the local plant will turn out the completed product, he explained.

At the present time there are over 1,000 people employed at the site on construction, machinery installation and other duties.

As production begins, only a fraction of needed personnel will be employed, he outlined, but as production reaches its ultimate, this number will increase.

Hainsfurther said the company cannot possibly employ everyone seeking jobs and there are bound to be disappointments.

He then explained the procedure being followed by the company in selecting employes.

At the present time, he explained, the company is building its management team and selecting supervisors and others for key jobs.

Fifty-two per cent of this supervisory or management team is to be hired locally and 48 per cent will come from existing plants.

Tests of various kinds are given applicants, and as these tests progress, it is possible, he said, to select those most desirable as supervisors. After a series of tests and checking of references, applicants are sent for a physical examination. If they complete this satisfactorily, they are being hired.

Supervisors Hired

The first group has already been employed and this week started a rigid training program. The program requires 17 days of intensive basic training and the entire training plan is divided into five phases. The last of these is on-the-job training in actual production work.

These supervisors will be responsible for training the hourly-paid workers who will eventually be hired to do the numerous jobs the work entails. Each department supervisor will train his own people. These people will be selected, also, after a series of tests and a program of basic indoctrination.

He explained a number of photographs which were projected on a large screen, outlining in detail the progress that has been made and the work accomplished in only a few months.

Nelson W. Russler, president, introduced James Weber, vice president, who introduced the two official guests. Russler also introduced a number of other guests including, city and county officials.

Corsages were presented to Miss Nancy Andrews of Mapleside who was this year's Fun Fair Queen; to Miss Dorothy Reynolds and Miss Antoinette Cifala, runners-up in the contest. Miss Andrews, for her work in the contest, also was presented two pieces of luggage.

Garrett Contract Declared Null In Court Action

An injunction preventing two of Garrett County's Commissioners from continuing a contract providing shale and gravel for county road work was issued yesterday by Chief Judge George Henderson in an equity suit heard in the Circuit Court of that county.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport attorney, filed a petition for an injunction against Aubrey C. Brenneman and Harvey Swartzentruber. He represented the third commissioner, Irvin Roth.

In testimony yesterday Whitworth gave evidence that Brenneman is part owner of A. C. Brenneman and Son, contractor for drilling holes in the Bishop quarry in Garrett County at a rate of $2 a foot.

Rock and shale for the county road work was being obtained in the drilling contract, Whitworth pointed out.

It was also brought out in the testimony that Brenneman and his son, John M. Brenneman, had filed a 1955-56 partnership income tax report.

About $30,000 is involved in the contract, Whitworth said. At least $16,000 of the work has been completed.

In the opinion, Judge Henderson did not stipulate whether or not the money would be paid by the county, and declared the contract void.

The trial lasted from 9:30 a. m. until about 3:30 p. m. Representing the defendants were Attorneys Walter W. Dawson and W. Dwight Stover of Oakland and William A. Gunter, local attorney.
